MAYOR WALKER RESIGNS OFFICE UNDER FIRE; PLANS TO SEEK REELECTION AS VINDICATION

REYNOLDS' BODY IS EXHUMED AND AUTOPSY MADE

Disinterment Occurred on August 23, Day His Brother Arrived.

OFFICIALS DECLINE TO DISCUSS RESULTS

Libby Holman and Walker Are Now Free on Bond in Murder Charge.

Winston-Salem, N. C., Sept. 1 (A. P.).—The Winston-Salem Journal says it has learned from authoritative sources that the body of Smith Reynolds, who was fatally wounded at his home here July 6, was exhumed August 23 and an autopsy performed.

The papers says the exhumation was ordered by Solicitor Carlisle Higgins and Assistant Solicitor J. Earle McMichael, and that four physicians were directed to make the autopsy.

Reynolds' widow, Libby Holman Reynolds, former Broadway blues singer, and his 19-year-old chum, Albert (Ab) Walker, of Winston-Salem, are under murder indictments in connection with his death. They are free on $25,000 bond each.

On Day Brother Arrived.

The date of the disinterment was the day on which R. J. Reynolds, jr., elder brother of Smith, arrived in Winston-Salem after a six weeks' journey from the coast of Africa, where he was cruising at the time of the tragedy, but the journal says he did not see the body.

Authorities declined tonight to discuss the results of the autopsy. The Journal says, however, it ascertained that the bullet entered the right temple from close range and came out behind the left ear after following a downward course.

No Autopsy Before Burial.

No autopsy was performed before the burial of the young heir to an estimated $15,000,000 of the fortune left by his father, R. J. Reynolds, the tobacco magnate.

Young Reynolds was found fatally wounded on a sleeping porch of Reynolda, the family estate, shortly after dispersal of a gay birthday party. An original finding of suicide was made by Coroner W. N. Dalton, but an inquest was later ordered.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict that Reynolds came to his death at the hands of parties unknown, and August 4 his widow and Walker were indicted.

Both testified at the inquest he had threatened to take his own life.

Paraguay Rejects Terms of Truce

Declines to Accept Peace on Basis of Present Troop Positions.

(Associated Press.)

Paraguay yesterday refused to accept a military truce with Bolivia in the disputed Chaco wilderness region on the basis of the present positions of troops. In a note to the United States and other neutral nations working to prevent a war in South America, Paraguay said:

"We have no guarantee that the truce can not be utilized by Bolivia to complete her mobilization and to realize her military objective, which consists in overcoming our resistance and reaching the Paraguay River."

5 Robbers Kidnap Girl in Bank Theft

Machine Guns Are Used in South Dakota Holdup; Another Is Robbed.

Flandreau, S. Dak., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Five men, armed with machine guns raided the First National Bank of Flandreau early today, kidnaped a girl clerk, slugged a customer and fled with about $2,000. The girl, Alma Weide, was carried about a mile out of town before the bandits stopped their car and released her unharmed.

Officers of the bank, after a hurried check, said the bandits obtained a package containing $1,500 in currency and some loose silver and other currency. The bulk of the bank's cash was untouched, however.

Whitewood, S. Dak., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Three men robbed the Whitewood Banking Co. of an undetermined sum today and kidnaped the cashier, W. Guy Bailey.

Two Armed Men Get $100 Loot In Thomas Circle Shop Holdup

A daring holdup in the crowded Thomas Circle section was staged last night by two well-dressed, armed bandits who forced Mrs. Caroline Clavenger, cashier of the Garden T Shoppe, to surrender $100 to them under threat of harming her child.

While three other employes of the tea shop, located at Vermont avenue and Fourteenth street, went about their tasks, ignorant of the holdup, Mrs. Clavenger was menaced by a pistol held by one of the criminals, while his accomplice kept a pistol pressed against the window behind the cashier's desk, obviously covering the other's retreat.

After obtaining the money, the bandits disappeared in the after-theater crowds near the circle. Radio scout cars and emergency police automobiles that flocked to the scene attracted a large throng. The holdup occurred at about 10:30 p. m.

One of the pair approached Mrs. Clavenger's post which is in the front of the store, fronting on Thomas Circle. He showed a pistol and demanded that she hand over the money from the cash register.

"Put away the gun. It scares me," said Mrs. Clavenger.

"Come on. Quit stalling. Hand over the cash," said the holdup man. "Please put away the gun. It has me frightened."

"Come on, hand it over. You look like a sensible girl."

"I'm not a girl. I'm married and have a child. Please put away that gun."

"Well, hand over the cash or we'll get your child. And, remember, you don't know anything if you're asked. Knowing things is bad, you know."

Mrs. Clavenger removed the cash, approximately $100, from the register and handed it to the man.

Mrs. Clavenger described the one who talked with her as a "real holdup man." "It wasn't his first holdup," she said. "He was perfectly calm and not in the least bit nervous," she told Patrolmen J. S. McWhirt and J. E.

Louisiana Banker and 2 Small Daughters Are Menaced.

Pontchatoula, La., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Frustrated in two attempts to abduct a bank president and his two small daughters, two men today shot their way through a posse gathering in the streets of Springfield, near here, and fled into a wooded marsh.

Three hundred citizens, headed by sheriff's deputies, were believed to have them surrounded tonight.

Officers said the men apparently intended either to force the bank president, W. E. Mount, head of the Merchants & Farmers Bank of Pontchatoula, to aid them in a robbery of the institution or to seek ransom with Mount or his daughters as hostages.

Mount first was seized this morning as he inspected a field on his farm, but he fought off the men, who became frightened by his cries for help. He reported the incident to authorities and within an hour started to drive his daughters, Ruby, 8, and Clarabelle, 10, to school. He was halted on a lonely road by the same pair, who attempted to seize the girls.

With the aid of passing motorists, the men were again beaten off and fled in a car toward Springfield, which city was notified of their approach. As they drove down the main street a crowd was gathering and the men speeded up the car and dashed through the town, emptying their pistols into store fronts. No one was hit.

In danger of being overtaken a few miles from town, the men abandoned their car and sought refuge in the marsh.

The people indulged in a mad scramble as coins and bills fell into the street in profusion.

The banker's friends said he had lamented the economic situation in Colon and deeply felt the needs of his fellow citizens.

BONUS TALK TABOO FOR U. S. EMPLOYES

Indiana Postal Worker Is Dismissed After His Political Activity.

(Associated Press.)

Government employes and their families are prohibited from expressing publicly their views upon the soldiers' bonus under new regulations promulgated by the Civil Service Commission.

Chairman Campbell said yesterday this subject had been included in the list of taboo political questions, even though there is no line drawn on it this year between the two major political parties.

While there is always a list of political questions upon which Civil Service employes are not permitted to argue publicly, a presidential year always brings fresh ones because of the new issues coming to the front.

The bonus ruling has already operated to some extent in bringing the dismissal of Ben H. Kerr, a postoffice clerk at Gary, Ind. Arch Coleman, First Assistant Postmaster General, said Kerr was discharged because of "repeated delinquencies" in his work, but added that among the charges against him was one reading:

"It is also charged that you introduced a bonus resolution at a meeting of the American Legion, Crown Point, Ind., March 6, 1932, contrary to the expressed wishes of the President, who considers such legislation harmful to the country at this time."

Coleman said this count alone would not have brought the dismissal of Kerr.

As a usual thing, Chairman Camp-

MEXICO'S HEAD OPENS SESSION; TO RETAIN POST

Ortiz Rubio, as Congress Meets, Denies Any Plans to Resign.

Mexico City, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—President Pascual Ortiz Rubio, through his secretary, late tonight flatly denied that he would resign, or ask Congress for a leave of absence, as many rumors have had it. This statement came after the president had opened the Thirty-fifth Congress.

President Pascual Ortiz Rubio made his annual address amid a wave of conflicting reports that he would tender his resignation within 48 hours.

Announcement that he had summoned a general cabinet meeting for tomorrow, the first in several months, served to create the impression that his political future would be settled at that time.

Addressing the joint chamber for exactly an hour, the president told his legislators that Mexico was at peace with the world and had no major and few minor problems. The president of the chamber replied briefly and Congress adjourned.

Streets Are Guarded.

Through streets patrolled by long lines of infantry the president was escorted to the Chamber of Deputies by a squad of brilliantly garbed cavalry troops. He was preceded by the cabinet and the entire Diplomatic Corps.

Hoover to Leave Today For Respite at Rapidan

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover will leave this afternoon for one of his longest vacations of the year at the Rapidan mountain camp. Mrs. Hoover and a small group of companions left the White House by motor about noon yesterday.

The President plans to remain at the mountain retreat until after Labor Day, returning to his desk Tuesday morning.

Killing of Brother And Girl Confessed

Elida, O., Man Declares He Slew in 1931 Because of Jealousy.

Lima, Ohio, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—County authorities tonight announced Loren Ellsworth Truesdale, 23, of Elida, had confessed he killed his brother, Earl Truesdale, 20, and Thelma Woods, 19, on the evening of Memorial Day, 1931, and threw their bodies into an abandoned stone quarry near here.

Truesdale was taken into custody last night by private detectives employed by the Allen County prosecutor to work on the case several weeks ago.

Authorities, before whom the confession was made, quoted Truesdale as saying jealousy prompted the act. They said he told them his brother had "taken several girls away from him," and that he had made up his mind to get even with Earl.

FARM STRIKERS DEMAND ARREST OF ASSAILANTS

Mass Near Cherokee In Protest Move After Wounding of 14.

PLANS OF ENTERING IOWA TOWN DENIED

Cherokee, Iowa, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Hundreds of participants in the farm marketing strike gathered on highways near Cherokee tonight with the avowed intention of staying there until a shooting episode is solved.

Their leaders announced that no march on the city is planned and that they sought only to bring to justice a group of men who early Wednesday wounded 14 pickets who were trying to prevent farm produce from reaching local markets. Tension was relieved around the courthouse, where 75 deputy sheriffs were stationed.

Meanwhile, near Council Bluffs picketing was resumed on one highway and three truck loads of live stock were turned back. Farmers near Sioux City also refused to cease picketing, as ordered last night when strike officials at Des Moines called a "truce."

To Demand Arrests.

When the farmers first gathered here, one of the leaders, Lloyd Sangwin, declared that the pickets did not plan to storm the Cherokee Courthouse.

Others said the farmers, embittered by the shooting episode, would march into the city and demand the arrest of the men they believe were in automobiles that raced through a picket line and hurled tear gas bombs at the farmers.

County Attorney R. G. Rodman, of Cherokee County, said he telephoned Gov. Dan Turner today and was told that the State would help him if necessary.

Picketing continued around Omaha on the Nebraska side of the Missouri River, and the force of deputy sheriffs there was increased to 86 as farmers regathered after being dispersed by officers.

Saying they sought to avoid violence, Milo Reno, national president, and John Chalmers, Iowa president of the Farmers Holiday Association, which sponsored the four-week-old strike, last night announced at Des Moines that picketing is to be suspended pending a conference of Midwestern governors scheduled to be held at Sioux City, Iowa, September 9.

Regarding the temporary truce,

Bank Robbers Get $10,000 in Brooklyn

Six Escape in Two Large Cars After Hasty Armed Holdup.

New York, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Six armed robbers held up the Bensonhurst National Bank in Brooklyn today and escaped with more than $10,000. The men held five employes and seven depositors at bay with guns, scooped the cash from tellers' cages and robbed the depositors of their money and jewelry.

They made their escape in two large automobiles which waited in front of the bank. One of the autos was found abandoned a half mile away.

Because of haste the robbers missed the opportunity to seize an additional amount of between $15,000 and $25,000 in currency.

Texas House Defeats Resubmission Move

Austin, September 1 (A.P.).—The Texas House of Representatives unanimously ratified an amendment to the Federal Constitution today to abolish the lame duck session of the National Congress. Favorable senate action is expected at this special session of the legislature called by Gov. R. S. Sterling to consider tax relief measures.

The House definitely rejected a resolution petitioning Texas members of Congress to vote to submit the question of repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment to the people. A motion to indefinitely postpone consideration carried 71 to 43.

JAPAN-MANCHUKUO TREATY IS DRAFTED

Pact to Be Signed Soon Will Provide for Defensive Alliance.

Tokyo, Friday, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—The foreign office announced today that a basic treaty between the Manchurian State of Manchukuo and Japan would be signed soon, to become effective before September 15. The agreement will provide a defensive alliance between the two nations.

Under the pact, Japan will be given the right to station troops throughout Manchukuo. Japan will undertake both the internal and external defense of Manchukuo under the treaty, which also will guarantee mutual respect for territorial sovereignty.

When the document is signed, probably on the very day it is to become effective, full diplomatic recognition of Manchukuo will automatically come about. The treaty will be communicated to the principal foreign powers before it is signed. The foreign office said there were no secret clauses.

PARIS CHIEFS SILENT ON REICH ARMS PLAN

Paris, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Germany's attempt to free herself from the limitations placed on her armaments by the Versailles Treaty was discussed in great detail at a meeting of the cabinet today, but at the conclusion of the session not a word was forthcoming concerning the stand France will take.

Although every member of the government was uncommunicative concerning the representations that have been made by Germany to France, it was understood the principal points in the German communication were these:

1. Modification of the Versailles Treaty and its provision for a twelve-year service basis in the German army.

2. Amalgamation of compulsory military service and the period served by the militia.

3. Sanction for a German army of 300,000 men. The present army numbers about 100,000.

4. Permission for Germany to maintain heavy, light and coastal artillery.

5. Permission for maintaining tanks for the German army.

MAYOR SCORES OUSTER TRIAL IN STATEMENT

Declares He Refuses to Be 'Lynched' Because of Prejudice.

LEGALITY OF VOTE AT ONCE IN DOUBT

New York City's Executive Since 1925, Would Put Case Up to People.

New York, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Mayor James J. Walker resigned tonight and simultaneously announced he was submitting his case to "the people who made me mayor, to the people of the City of New York."

Declaring the question had reached this stage: "Shall I permit myself to be lynched to satisfy prejudice or political ambitions?" The mayor sent a single-sentence resignation to City Clerk Michael J. Cruise.

"I hereby resign as Mayor of the City of New York, the said resignation to take effect immediately," the letter read.

This action by the mayor came after fourteen months of legislative investigation which reached its climax at a hearing before Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt in Albany, who was considering sensational charges preferred by Samuel Seabury, counsel to the Hofstadter legislative committee. The sessions before the governor had been scheduled for resumption tomorrow.

To Seek Reelection.

With the letter of resignation was made public over his signature a 1,700-word formal statement in which he indicated, but did not state definitely that he might seek vindication at the polls. Political leaders considered it certain, however, Walker would run again.

After characterizing the hearing before Gov. Roosevelt as "a travesty, a mock trial, a proceeding in comparison which even the practice of a drum-head court-martial seemed liberal," Mayor Walker concluded with the following statements:

"Why, then, continue before him when there is another forum open to me? To that forum, the people of the City of New York, I leave my case in the spirit of true democracy, conscious of the rectitude of my official acts and with a faith in the fair judgment of my fellow citizens.

McKee Takes Over Office.

"I am not trying to avoid responsibility. I am incurring it by submitting my case to the people who made me mayor, to the people of the City of New York. To this decision I have been urged by the most loyal and distinguished Democrats in the country."

With Mayor Walker's resignation, Aldermanic President Joseph V. McKee, a resident of the Bronx and a friend of Secretary of State Edward J. Flynn, one of Gov. Roosevelt's strongest supporters and advisers in his campaign as Democratic presidential candidate, automatically became mayor.

McKee is a former judge, former Greek and Latin instructor and the holder of the degrees of A. B., A. M., LL. B., and LL. D.

When informed in Albany of Walker's action, Gov. Roosevelt said he

Daughter of Mayor Kills Herself at Fredericksburg

Miss Elizabeth Payne, 25, Ends Life Shortly After Her Father Is Installed in Office; Shot Fired From Gun of Brother's Business Associate.

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., Sept. 1.—Miss Elizabeth Payne, 25 years old, the daughter of Dr. R. J. Payne, committed suicide today in the office of her brother, Robert B. Payne, a few hours after her father was installed in the office of Mayor of Fredericksburg.

Miss Payne, who was prominent in society here, was a second cousin of John Barton Payne, head of the American Red Cross.

She was found shortly after noon unconscious in her brother's office. The discovery was made by Robert Olney, a business associate of her brother, and grandson of Richard V. Olney, a member of the Cabinet of President Grover Cleveland.

After an investigation of her death by Washington detectives, Coroner John Cole issued a certificate of suicide. Her act was attributed by police to nervousness and depression caused by business worries.

The bullet, Dr. Cole said, entered the right side of her head about two inches above the ear, and emerged on the left side, about three inches above the ear. Near her side was found a .32-caliber automatic pistol. The gun used by the girl was the property of Olney, he said.

Miss Payne died in the Mary Washington Hospital here a few hours after she was found lying on the floor of her brother's coal and wood office by Olney.

Evidence uncovered by Lieut. John H. Fowler, ballistics expert of the Washington Police Department, and

Averages 282.672 Miles an Hour in Test at Cleveland; Blames Failure to Break Record on Motor Trouble; Plans New Attempt Tomorrow.

Maj. James H. Doolittle, flashing four times over a 3-kilometer course at the national air races, averaged 282.672 miles an hour—.778 miles less than the speed required to break the mark held for eight years by France.

It was the second time in two days that the record escaped the former Air Corps pilot, an average of 293.193 miles an hour made yesterday having no official standing because of failure to carry a barograph.

Riding a brisk wind, he attained his highest speed, 302.016 miles an hour, on his final dash. On the second lap his average was 301.067 miles an hour.

He paid for this help, however, on the two return journeys, for the wind, then blowing almost straight to the nose of the squat red-and-white racer, greatly slackened his speed. The first lap's average was 261.834 miles an hour, the slowest of all, and the third lap was 285.774 miles an hour.

His plane looked like a short, fat bug as it burned its way past the stands with a long tail of oil smoke trailing behind and forming a black ribbon that stayed in the sky long after the pilot had disappeared in his roaring mount.

On landing, Doolittle said the motor had not behaved correctly and ordered mechanics to look over the power plant for possible damage. He

$2,000,000 to Give 700 Jobs Sought by Pennsylvania Railroad.

NEBRASKAN TO HEAD AGRICULTURAL UNIT

First of Self-Liquidating Project Sums Due to Be Awarded Next Week.

(United Press.)

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation cleared the way yesterday for an expanded program that soon will pour millions of dollars more into industry and agriculture to carry out the administration's new antidepression campaign.

Developments yesterday were:

1. The Pennsylvania Railroad applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to borrow $2,000,000 from the corporation to put 700 men to work this fall and winter. It was the first step in President Hoover's program to stimulate employment in the railroad industry. Applications from other roads are expected shortly.

2. Director Harvey C. Couch of the corporation, who has charge of loans for construction of self-liquidating projects, announced that the first loan of this character probably will be made next week. Applications for 194 such projects are pending, some of them giant enterprises.

Hovey Is Appointed.

3. Ford Hovey, Omaha, Nebr., was appointed yesterday as chief of the agricultural department of the corporation to direct lending of money to agricultural credit corporations to inject new life into the basic farming industry. The first loans will be made during this month.

4. Director Wilson McCarthy revealed that the corporation is considering loans to manufacturers under a section of the relief act under which $50,000,000 recently was advanced for cotton stabilization. A study now is being made of the New England woolen industry, with a view to financing the purchase by mills of wool for manufacture and processing.

The corporation continued its relief activities yesterday by awarding Florida a loan of $500,000 under the Wagner-Garner act for unemployment relief; by establishing a branch office for the Twelfth Land Bank District Regional Agricultural Corporation at Boise, Idaho, and by hearing a request from Representative Edward W. Pou, (Democratic), North Carolina, for location of an Agricultural Credit Corporation at Raleigh, N. C. Pou said Raleigh is the logical place for one of the other two corporations still to be established in the Southeast.

Seen as Big Job Aid.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has opened the way for a series of loans which Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, predicted recently would be in such volume that 100,000 workers altogether would be added to the ranks of the employed during the next few months. Willard revealed the scope of the administration's program at the Hoover business conference here last week.

The Pennsylvania loan will be used for construction of 1,500 steel box cars, which is expected to furnish work for 700 men at 40 hours per week for at least five months. The loan was asked for three years, with 5 per cent interest.

The railroad's board of directors approved the application for the loan on July 29, the same day President Hoover announced plans for railroad employment program. The formal application yesterday explained that the only reason the loan is sought at this time is to provide employment at its shops during the winter months.

19,000 Tons of Steel.

It was estimated that 19,000 tons of steel will be required for the order, which will aid employment in the steel industry. It is this parallel stimulation of other industries upon which the administration counts to make the program really effective.

In announcing the imminence of loans for self-liquidating projects yesterday, Couch replied to recent criticism at delay in this character of relief by explaining that careful inspection of each application is necessary to determine whether it comes under the specifications laid down to protect the Government's interests.

In many cases the corporation had to secure additional data, he said.

Couch indicated that action upon the loans, when once started, would proceed swiftly. The preliminary surveys of loan applications have been made.

Other Projects Planned.

Among some of the large projects pending are the New Orleans Belt Line Bridge, which, Couch said, probably would employ 6,500 men for three years; the Triborough Bridge in New York and the Metropolitan Water District project in Los Angeles. Couch disclosed the first project approved will be a bridge, but did not reveal which one.

McCarthy said details of the new agricultural organization which will operate under Hovey will be announced within a few days. The first step will be feed loans for farmers. This relief should be well under way very soon, though two agricultural corporations in the Southeast still are to be established.

In discussing the plan to make loans to manufacturers, McCarthy explained that such loans would be secured by the manufacturer, probably with a proviso for holding a lien on the finished product.

Fascists Gain Control In San Marino Republic

San Marino, Republic of San Marino, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Fascists gained control of the government of this 1,000-year-old republic today with the election of a majority in the governing council of 60. Premier Mussolini telegraphed his congratulations to the Fascist leaders.

San Marino is one of the smallest and most ancient states in Europe. It lies a few miles from the Adriatic Sea and is inclosed on all sides by the Italian provinces of Forli and Pesaro e Urbino. It is about 22 square miles in area and has a population of about 10,000.

Ewing, president, has announced. Repairs will be started on 3,800 cars and 78 locomotives, Ewing said, and the work will last for several months and will involve the expenditure of $1,200,000. He said "gradual improvement in business conditions" necessitated "extensive repairs to equipment."

INLAND WATERWAYS BODY IS CONSIDERED

Federal Advisory Board Will Weigh Transportation Problem Today.

(Associated Press.)

A plan designed to improve the economic welfare of the Nation's inland water carriers—through formation of a waterways transportation association to look after their interests—will be considered today by the advisory board of the Federal Inland Waterways Corporation.

Sponsored for more than a year by Maj. Gen. L. T. Q. Ashburn, chairman of the corporation, the proposal will be advocated before the board by Andrew Calhoun, of Louisville, vice president of the American Barge Line.

Ashburn said yesterday he believed the association would do for the water carriers what the American Railway Association does for the railroads.

He contended the proposal would result, among other things, in economies of operation, the maintenance of fair rates which would give carriers a reasonable profit, and a spirit of cooperation which would benefit the companies participating.

If the board approves the plan, the question of Federal participation will be determined by Secretary Hurley of the War Department.

Ashburn and Calhoun conferred yesterday on the plan. Ashburn said when he first proposed the organization the idea made little headway, but that recently the subject had been reopened by private operators.

The advisory board is composed of James E. Smith, of St. Louis; John T. Adams, of Dubuque, Iowa; R. A. Brown, of Birmingham; W. M. Jacoby, of Pittsburgh; E. M. Antrim, of Chicago, and W. P. O'Neal, of New Orleans.

tions without disorder or generation of serious problems.

The foreign relations ministry has transported 126,154 Mexicans out of the United States to the Mexican border for repatriation, without involving the expenditure of public funds during the past year, the President continued, turning to the report of Foreign Secretary Manuel C. Tellez.

"Because of the world crisis which has created discontent in the industrial centers of the world and seriously affected labor," the report said, "the situation of our nationals abroad has constituted a serious problem requiring the Government's urgent attention.

"This particularly has been true in the United States because of the gravity of the crisis there, as well as the great numbers of our nationals who emigrated there during years of industrial prosperity.

"Mexico is awakening industrially, and we must needs hurry to prepare a rational plan for development in this direction. Our present progress in this direction has been moderately successful, but our aims are disorientated. We have been obliged, like other nations, to adopt a protective policy. We have encouraged small industry, sought home consumption, unified working conditions among industrial groups."

New Boosts in Tariffs Recommended in Britain

London, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—New duties on certain foreign imports were recommended tonight by the import and duties advisory committee to encourage home industry. The duty on leather gloves will be raised from 20 to 30 per cent, the committee said, so that United Kingdom manufacturers in the middle and higher grades would be able to replace imports and improve exports.

The duty on scissors will be raised on a scale according to their length. Other affected articles are hair combs, wrapping paper, poultry and sausages.

Smaller Cash Crops Seen In Agriculture Survey

(Associated Press.)

Smaller cash crops and relatively large feed crops were pictured yesterday by the Agriculture Department as important factors in the current farm situation. Estimates for August placed the average of crop yield per acre at 6.5 per cent less than a year ago, and 4.6 per cent under the ten-year average.

GERMAN ARMS PLEA SEEN HURTING CAUSE

Concession to Demand May Hold Up French Signing, Swanson Says.

(Associated Press.)

The view that concessions to the German demand for arms equality with other nations might possibly "cause France to refrain from signing some of the agreements we hope for" was expressed yesterday by Senator Swanson (Democrat), Virginia, an American delegate to the Geneva armaments conference.

The senator made this statement as he left the White House where, he said, he reported to President Hoover he was "not optimistic but hopeful—more hopeful than when I started—that something substantial can be accomplished" by the world gathering.

The Virginian said the United States delegates now were casting an interested eye at the developments surrounding Germany's renewed demand for removal of the arms restrictions placed upon her by the Versailles treaty.

Asked what effect this would have on the reduction of armaments movement, the Virginian replied:

"The American delegation took no stand at Geneva upon the German proposal, believing it was a matter between European nations. Its effect will depend upon the reaction from Great Britain and France. Possibly, concessions to the German suggestion might cause France to refrain from signing some of the agreements we hope for."

At the State Department, the threat by Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, the Junker minister of defense, that Germany would quit the arms conference unless her demands were granted was considered in the light of the effect it might have on the Hoover plan for a one-third cut in land and sea armaments.

As the United States is not signatory to the Versailles Treaty and as the separate treaty signed by the United States making peace with Germany contained no restrictions on German defenses, this country is not directly concerned with the overtures Germany has made to France.

Germany's attitude has great bearing on the general question of world armaments, however, concerning which the United States Government has very decided views.

It was made clear at the State Department yesterday that this Government stands firmly for reductions in armaments, and not for any increases, and will seek by all legitimate means to influence radical reductions in defense expenditures the world around as a means of bettering economic conditions.

Last Stand Staged By Rebels at Quito

Ecuador Capital City Is Virtually in Hands of Federal Troops.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Sept. 1 (U.P.).—The battle-torn capital city of Quito was virtually in the hands of federal troops tonight, but remnants of the rebel army supporting the presidential cause of Dr. Neptali Bonifaz continued their desperate resistance.

The rebel battalions Constitutcion and Manabi and Quito police have surrendered, but the famous Bolivar regiment, nucleus of the rebellion, and Bonifacista volunteers fought on.

The struggle for the city, which has gone on for four days, has left Quito a virtual shambles. Hundreds are said to have been slain and most of the bodies are still lying in the streets, the fighting making it impossible to remove them. Sanitary conditions are appalling. The waterworks has been put out of commission and water is being taken to hospitals and clinics in barrels. The shortage of food has grown acute.

Montgomery Police Raid Still and Arrest Three

Montgomery County police yesterday raided a still in the woods on the road between Scotland and Rockville near the National Woman's Club and arrested three men. The men gave their names as Jack Myers, 2301 First street northwest, and Edward Decatur and Oliver Decatur, both of 625 Fourteenth street northeast.

TEAGLE IS MAPPING 'BIGGEST' JOB DRIVE

Temporarily Gives Up Work With Standard Oil to Conduct Campaign.

New York, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Walter C. Teagle announced today he had temporarily freed himself from his job as president of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, to lead what he purposes to make the most intensive and far-reaching campaign ever undertaken in this country to create jobs.

Established in new headquarters in the Federal Reserve Bank, the Standard Oil head, as chairman of a special coordinating committee, formed at the suggestion of President Hoover, today outlined a program which he expects materially to reduce the number of the country's jobless.

Mr. Teagle was selected by President Hoover last week to organize and direct the "share the work" movement, because of the deep interest he has given to the problem in his own company. He is credited with having worked out the shorter-working-week system under which Standard Oil of New Jersey has been able to keep on its pay rolls several thousand more employes than would be there under the full-time system.

The work of Mr. Teagle's committee toward the amelioration of unemployment conditions will be carried on, according to the program announced today, by coordinaing a Nation-wide campaign for the acceptance by American business of the principle of "job security by job sharing."

The movement will be undertaken in each of the twelve Federal Reserve Districts of the country under the direction of the banking and industrial committee of each district. One member from each of these district committees will compose the coordination committee, with Mr. Teagle at its head, and L. C. Walker, president of the Shaw-Walker Co., of Muskegon, Mich., as vice chairman.

PARIS CHIEFS SILENT ON REICH ARMS PLAN

6. Establishment of a complete military aviation corps.

8. Extension of the German navy by the addition of airplane carriers, cruisers and submarines.

9. Sanction for the construction of forts along Germany's frontiers.

10. Permission to build 35 war material factories.

It was learned authoritatively that Premier Edouard Herriot refrained from discussing the German action because he wanted to observe correct usage. Secrecy was requested in the communication received from the Berlin government. This communication was in the form of an aide-memoire which is a representation less formal than an official note. A communique issued at the close of the cabinet session said only that the premier had informed his colleagues of the external situation.

U. S. May Get Proposal.

The newspaper Le Temps said it understood the German government was forwarding to Washington and Rome communications similar to the one sent France.

Official circles expected the French government to communicate without delay with the interested powers concerning the German move.

The Berlin aide-memoire was delivered to Premier Herriot while he was en route to Paris from the Island of Jersey, where he had been visiting with Sir Herbert Samuel, the British home secretary.

Before the cabinet meeting the premier talked things over with the British charge d'affaires.

Le Temps asserted that Germany's "menace to rearm" had deliberately destroyed the movement which was taking place for the reduction of armaments. If international armaments have not been reduced to the ideal low limit, the newspaper declared, Germany is especially responsible because her attitude has not been of a nature to create security sufficient to induce the nations to abandon means of defense.

London Sees Blunder.

London, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—The question whether Germany has blundered diplomatically in her attempt to achieve equality in armaments with other nations was raised in London today.

Official circles, while reticent about commenting, nevertheless recalled that Britain administered a virtual rebuke to Germany on the same issue last July when the disarmament conference was ending.

The British remonstrance concerned the method of approach, not the German basic rights. Count Rudolf Nadolny, Germany's representative at Geneva, declared he could not subscribe to the resolution adopted by the conference just before it adjourned because there was no mention of equality in arms for Germany. Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, retorted that the resolution dealt merely with the accomplishments of the conference, not with its future program, and advised Germany to wait for the next session.

This squelching was the last British official declaration on the subject. There is no reason to believe the government has changed its views.

Steel Helmet Conclave.

Berlin, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—The statement that every former service man in Germany stands behind the government's efforts to obtain equality in armaments with other nations and to bring about revision of the Versailles treaty was made today by Col. Theodore Duesterberg, second chaifman of the steil helmet war veterans organization.

Col. Duesterberg, who ran for president this spring against Paul von Hindenburg and Adolf Hitler, made this statement in a press interview which served as curtain raiser for the steel helmet convention, at which 150,000 delegates are representing the membership of 1,000,000 former service men.

The official press department denied that the government had sent either a note or a memorandum on the arms subject to France. The French ambassador, it was explained, merely had been provided with a "loose aide memoire."

Commodities Finance Board Makes First Loan

$10,000 for G. O. P. Campaign Donated

Taylor and Daden Give $5,000 Each for Senate Races.

(Associated Press.)

The first of the campaign fund reports filed yesterday showed contributions of $10,000 to the Republican senatorial committee headed by Senator Hatfield, of West Virginia. Myron C. Taylor, of New York, chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation gave $5,000, and D. D. Daden, of New York, $5,000.

James G. Baine, of New York, the new treasurer of the committee, listed contributions as follows: Senator Thomas, of Idaho, $2,500; Senator Oddie, of Nevada, $2,000; Senator Dickinson, of Iowa, $1,000, and Melvin J. Chisum, $300 for field work in California.

A balance of $7,204 was reported in the bank as of August 29, including other funds held by the committee as of June 25. The committee maintains accounts in the Commercial National Bank, of Washington; the First Huntington National Bank, Huntington, W. Va., and the First National Bank of Keystone, W. Va.

Howard W. Simms May Succeed Pole

(Associated Press.)

The formal resignation of John W. Pole, Comptroller of the Currency, will be submitted to President Hoover as soon as a successor has been selected. The President is understood to have under consideration the appointment of Howard W. Simms, a former national bank examiner now connected with the Chicago Clearing House Association.

Although Pole declined to discuss his future plans yesterday, banking circles had a report he had been offered the presidency of the $30,000,000 Fidelity Investment Association at Wheeling, W. Va. His friends say he is anxious to take over this position early in the fall.

For eight months, the Comptroller has had a request before Mr. Hoover for permission to leave the Federal post. He has remained on the job, however, at the insistence of the President, to handle the increased problems of his office. Pole was appointed to his post in November, 1928, by President Coolidge. He succeeded J. W. McIntosh.

MAYOR'S DAUGHTER TAKES HER OWN LIFE

a corps of Washington detectives, showed that Miss Payne had first tested the gun by firing a shot from the office doorway into the yard.

Then, returning to her desk, she fired the fatal shot. The bullet which caused her death was found imbedded in the ceiling. The gun, Olney said, was kept by him in the safe. A search failed to reveal any note left by Miss Payne, that would explain her act. Dr. Payne said he knew of no reason why his daughter should take her life. Friends told police she had been extremely nervous in recent months.

All employes of the coal and wood company were away from the office between 12 and 1 o'clock. A few witnesses said they heard two reports during this time, but they said they did not sound like pistol shots. No one was seen to enter or leave the place during the lunch period.

Early reports that the fatal bullet had entered behind the left ear and emerged near the right temple caused Fredericksburg police to call for the assistance of Lieut. Fowler and fingerprint experts and photographers. An autopsy showed these reports were erroneous.

Those who assisted Lieut. Fowler in the investigation were Viggo Lawson, fingerprint expert; Ira Gulickson, photographer, and Henry Jett, detective sergeant, all of the Washington Police Department.

Miss Payne was a popular member of the younger set of Fredericksburg, and was an accomplished dancer. She was graduated from the local high school in 1924 and attended the State teachers' college for two years. Her father, a practicing physician, was elected mayor without opposition in June, and began his four-year term today. In addition to her parents, she is survived by a sister and two brothers.

ROW ON U. S. COTTON IS PUT UP TO HOOVER

Asked to Settle Differences on Use of $50,000,000 to Defer Sale.

(Associated Press.)

The aid of President Hoover has been sought to smooth out differences between the Farm Board and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation as to how to handle the $50,000,000 set aside to keep stabilization cotton off the market until 1933.

Although announcement was made Monday that the corporation had alloted that sum to the American Cotton Cooperative Association and the Cotton Stabilization Corporation, with the condition that they hold their cotton from the market until next year, it was strongly indicated in Farm Board circles yesterday that the announcement was premature.

Since then intensive conferences have failed to bring an agreement as to the conditions that shall bind the loan, which was sought under one set of terms and approved under different conditions.

Secretary Hyde was at the White House twice yesterday, once accompanied by Chairman James C. Stone, of the Farm Board. Stone returned to Washington unexpectedly from a lengthy trip after the sudden announcement of the loan.

E. F. Creekmore, general manager of the Cotton Cooperative Association, also came to the Capital and is participating in the conferences. It was said in some quarters yesterday that the board had receded to the extent that it is now willing to have the accumulated cotton held from the market. However, the other differences are blocking an agreement.

Coffee-Wheat Contract Revision Is Progressing

Rio de Janeiro, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—American Ambassador Edwin V. Morgan discussed with the Federal Coffee Council today the request of the United States Wheat Stabilization Corporation for revision of the contract governing the release of coffee acquired by barter.

Owing to the scarcity of mild coffees in American markets, the council hopes an agreeable solution can be reached. There is abundant Brazilian coffee outside Sao Paulo, but not enough of the mild types such as the United States prefers. Rio de Janeiro's August exports amounted to 434,000 sacks, only slightly above normal, despite the lack of shipments from Sao Paulo.

CALIFORNIA SESSION SCORES B. E. F. ROUT

Veterans of Foreign Wars in U. S. Parley "Seriously Censures" Officials.

Sacramento, Calif., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—The Veterans of Foreign Wars in national encampment here passed a resolution today "seriously censuring" Federal officials responsible for using the Army to drive bonus marchers from Washington, D. C., last July.

The resolution, drafted and approved by a committee, was more temperate in its phraseology than the one adopted yesterday terming the eviction "criminally brutal" and stating "the President summoned the United States Army to rout and maim a pitiful and inoffensive crowd of ragged and unarmed bonuseers."

Presented by Joseph Carl Thompson, of New York City, with the explanation it was approved by members of the resolutions committee, the first resolution was carried yesterday with a demonstration that drowned out efforts of Darold D. Decoe, commander in chief, to have it referred to a committee.

The resolution today recited incidents occurring in Washington during the evacuation, including the use of cavalry, infantry, tanks, machine guns and gas bombs. In conclusion it read:

"Therefore, be it resolved, * * * that the Veterans of Foreign Wars thirty-third national encampment * * * does hereby go on record as seriously censuring those Government officials who were * * * in any way responsible for the unhumanitarian and un-American manner that was used in clearing the camps occupied by the so-called marchers and their families."

Officers explained to the press that the second resolution was introduced by the "committee on cash payment" as the organization's official expression.

The encampment also passed a resolution urging all former service men and the Grand Army of the Republic, United Spanish War Veterans, Disabled American Veterans of the World War and the American Legion to join in "an intensive coordination and cooperation of effort for the purpose of presenting a united front for immediate payment of adjusted service certificates and widows and orphans pensions."

Officers were nominated today, developing fights for the offices of junior vice commander and judge advocate general. Elections are to be held tomorrow.

Admiral Robert E. Coontz, U. S. N., retired, of Washington, D. C., senior vice commander in chief, was nominated to succeed Darold Decoe as commander of the organization.

13 Nominees for House In Missouri Back Repeal

Kansas City, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Missouri's thirteen Democratic nominees for representative in Congress, including five who had anti-saloon league indorsement in the recent primary, have pledged themselves to carry out the terms of the party's National platform plank declaring for repeal of the eighteenth amendment and modification of the Volstead act.

In a signed stipulation made public today, the eight nominees who are now members of Congress also pledged themselves to vote for such legislation at the December session of Congress.

FARM HOLIDAY PICKETS BLOCK HIGHWAY WITH HAY

MOSES SAYS HOOVER TO WIN BY 22 VOTES

Claims Figure Least Electoral Majority and Strength in New England.

New York, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—A prediction that President Hoover will be reelected "after a hard fight," and by a majority of at least 22 electoral college votes, was made tonight by Senator George H. Moses, New Hampshire Republican.

Sitting in a green and silver room at Republican ~~Eastern~~ headquarters, surrounded by half a dozen campaign leaders, he mixed serious prognostications with remarks about politics, the weather and congressional humorists.

"My honest opinion," he began, "is that we will reelect the President after a hard fight. I won't say anything about the complexion of the next Congress until I've traveled around the country some more."

He expressed an expectation that a smaller total vote would be cast this year than in 1928.

"We've figured that the Hoover-Curtis ticket will get an irreducible minimum of 288 electoral votes, 22 more than a majority."

In 1928 Mr. Hoover received 444 votes to 87 for "Al" Smith.

Speaking of the only section in which he has traveled recently, the veteran senator said:

"In New England the Republican sentiment is enormously stronger than it was in 1928.

"Massachusetts, a prominent Democrat told me, will go for Hoover and Gov. Ely will be defeated. That prediction surprised me. I thought the governor was very strong there.

"From all I hear, Maine will give us the normal Republican majority.

"In my own State of New Hampshire we will sweep right through, but with a smaller majority than in 1928, because the total vote will be smaller.

"There doesn't seem to be the boiling interest in politics that there usually is. Maybe by October the situation will change.

"Except in a few communities, I find little interest in prohibition. Generally speaking, they have come to the conclusion something is going to happen regardless of which nominee is elected, because of the party platforms.

FARMERS DEMAND ASSAILANTS' ARREST

Chalmers declared today it was called to allow further "consolidation of forces in the State," and applied only to Iowa.

He said further that "the battle to obtain the cost of production for the farmers of Iowa and the Middle West must and will go on.

MACNIDER RESIGNS AS ENVOY TO CANADA

To Take Part in G. O. P. Drive in Effort to Swell War Veteran Vote.

(Associated Press.)

The resignation of Hanford MacNider as American Minister to Canada was accepted yesterday by President Hoover, and an announcement made that the former Assistant Secretary of War would participate in the Republican campaign in an effort to line up the war veteran vote.

Almost simultaneously word was given out here and in Chicago that MacNider would assume active direction of the Republican Service Men's League, a post he held in the 1928 campaign.

MacNider himself, in line with a White House announcement that his "private affairs" required attention, said in Chicago he would return to Iowa to look into his banking and farming interests.

The Chief Executive yesterday gave high praise to MacNider in accepting his resignation. He said the Iowan's part in the consummation of the St. Lawrence waterway treaty was a notable service of which he might always be proud.

Henry Allen, publicity director of the Republican campaign, told newspapermen that MacNider would be attached to Chicago headquarters, doing some work as a speaker, but devoting almost his entire time to organizing the Service League.

Meanwhile, the Chicago headquarters issued a statement along the same line—that MacNider would direct the "revitalizing" of the league which has now extended into 30 States.

A former national commander of the American Legion, MacNider plans to attend the coming national legion convention, where an indorsement of the cash bonus appears likely. President Hoover made a personal appeal to the 1931 convention against the bonus.

The President apparently has taken no immediate steps to fill the Canadian post. Acting Secretary Castle, of the State Department, said he knew of no outstanding candidates at this time.

Ottawa, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Sir George Perley, acting prime minister of Canada, expressed regret today over the resignation of United States Minister Hanford MacNider.

"I do not feel that I can let this occasion pass without some expression on my own behalf and on behalf of the government of Canada, of our great regret at the resignation of Col. MacNider," Sir George said.

"Col. MacNider has not only performed his official diplomatic duties in a most efficient way, but he has also, through the many friends he has made and the unofficial contacts he has developed, done much to foster the good feeling that so happily exists between Canada and the United States.

"In this work he has been ably assisted by his charming wife and our regret at the loss of the United States Minister is very much increased by the fact that it means also the loss of Mrs. MacNider."

Four Navy Fliers Killed in Panama

Motor Fails and Plane Nose Dives Into 10 Feet of Water.

Colon, Canal Zone, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Four United States Navy fliers were killed today when their plane crashed from 400 feet near the fleet air base.

The dead:

J. H. Schnitzlein, 35, Brooklyn, N. Y.

W. P. Manthorn, chief radio operator, 32, Brockton, Mass.

D. R. Glaze, aviation ordnance man, Hopkins County, Tex.

C. Bugonian, 22, Binghamton, N. Y.

The motor failed and Schnitzlein, who was piloting, maneuvered for a forced landing. The plane went into a nose dive and plunged in 10 feet of water. Men of the Army and Navy air stations began diving for the bodies.

NEW PARTY FILES NOTICE IN VIRGINIA

Jobless Independent Group's Candidates Are Cox and Victor C. Tisdal.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—A new political party—the Jobless Independent party—entered the national arena today by filing formal notice of candidacy in Virginia with Col. Peter Saunders, secretary of the Commonwealth.

Spokesmen said they would file in every State in the Union.

James R. Cox is listed as the presidential candidate and Victor C. Tisdal as his running mate. The home addresses of the candidates were not given.

W. P. Walker, of Richmond, is chairman of the Virginia party and Henry C. Rhodes, also of Richmond, secretary.

District electors are Joseph Schneesman, Morrison, First District; John Wilson, Norfolk, Second; C. Willshire, Third; H. F. Leykam, Matoaca, Fourth; Paul A. Ziegler, Danville, Fifth; Samuel La Dato, Lynchburg, Sixth; Henry Gillespie, Palmyra, Seventh; Mrs. V. Costello, Alexandria, Eighth, and A. D. Twyman, Abingdon, Ninth.

Walker C. Cottrell, chairman of the State Democratic headquarters here, said he had never heard of the party before, but added, "If they enroll all the jobless this year they'll get quite a lot of votes."

Plot Held Aimed At Ma Ferguson

Major Oil Firms Would Steal Election, Charge in Texas Senate.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Senator Archie Parr, of Benavides, told the Texas Senate today that he believed an effort to force a legislative investigation of last Saturday's gubernatorial primary was "an effort of the major oil companies of Texas to steal the election from Mrs. Ferguson."

Senator Parr dean of the upper house, leveled his finger at Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman, author of a resolution proposing an inquiry into charges of illegal voting in the election Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, former governor, had been placed almost 3,000 votes in the lead of Gov. R. S. Sterling, incumbent, by unofficial tabulation of the result.

The galleries, some senators and many visitors on the floor of the senate, cheered the Rio Grande border senator as he spoke. The senate voted 14 to 12 to refer the resolution to its State affairs committee for consideration and recommendations to the entire body. Previously a motion to table the motion to refer was lost by a tie vote, 13 to 13.

Mrs. McCormick's Loans Under Quiz

U. S. Income Tax Agents to Check Deals of Krenn and Dato.

Chicago, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—The Government interested itself today in the real estate earnings of Edwin D. Krenn and Edward S. Dato as they invested the millions advanced to them by the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick.

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green instructed agents of the internal revenue department here to check for payment of income taxes by Krenn and Dato since 1922, the year after Krenn came here from Switzerland with John D. Rockefeller's daughter.

Green expressed particular curiosity about taxes on $1,250,000 which, according to attorneys for Mrs. McCormick, Krenn lent to her in 1929. Her counsel has said it was that act of friendship which most influenced Mrs. McCormick to bequeath five-twelfths of her estate to Krenn. He in turn signed it over to Dato for an annuity reported to be $24,000.

Defense Society Joins With Action Committee

New York, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Amalgamation of the American Defense Society and the National Action Committee was announced tonight at a dinner here of the Newport conference, of which Richard Washburn Child is chairman.

The announcement was made by Mr. Child, as chairman of the National Action Committee, and Elon H. Hooker, president of the Defense Society. The combined organizations plan to sound out public opinion, by means of post-card ballots, on the questions of debt cancellation and of calling an international economic conference.

DEMOCRATS ASSIGN SPEAKERS FOR 1932

Daniels, Baker, Glass, Ely and Ritchie Are Among Orators Announced.

New York, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—A cast of star orators, who have been assigned to play leading roles in the Roosevelt-Garner speaking campaign, was announced tonight at Democratic national headquarters.

Five men who held prominent posts during the Woodrow Wilson administration are included. Three of them were Cabinet members.

Two former presidential nominees, two governors, three United States representatives, two senators, one former senator and one mayor are also listed.

The tentative slate, as announced by Robert Jackson, chairman of the speakers' bureau, follows:

Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, who will do some stumping on the Pacific Coast, address the American Legion convention in Portland, Oreg., September 12, and make several speeches on his way back East.

Baker to Preside at Rally.

Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, and one of the "dark horse candidates" at the Chicago convention, who will preside at a rally in Cleveland in October, and make two or three other addresses, probably in the East.

Senator Carter Glass, Secretary of the Treasury in 1919, who will campaign in Maryland, West Virginia and sections of the West.

Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the late President Wilson, who will begin his stumping in the East the latter part of September.

Breckinridge Long, Washington lawyer and Assistant Secretary of State in the Wilson administration, whose speaking plans have not been completed.

Gov. Ely to Speak.

Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts, the man who nominated "Al" Smith at Chicago, who will speak at the Cleveland rally, and also at Lewistown, Me., September 9.

"Jimmy" Roosevelt, the presidential nominee's son, who will campaign in Maine from September 8 to 11, inclusive.

Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion, who will appear on the same program with Gov. Roosevelt at Bridgeport, Conn., Saturday, and who will speak in Maine on Labor Day.

Former Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, one of Roosevelt's rivals at Chicago, who will speak in the West and also possibly in the East.

Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey, who will stump New England and the North Atlantic Seaboard States.

Davis and Cox on List.

John W. Davis and James M. Cox, the 1924 and 1920 standard bearers, whose speaking dates have not been announced.

Representative Loring M. Black, of New York, who will appear at Red Lion, Pa., September 3, and at Allentown, Pa., September 10.

Mayor James M. Curley, of Boston, who speaks at South Bend, Ind., September 3, and in Wisconsin the next day.

Representative William J. Granfield, of Massachusetts, who will address the Northampton County (Pa.) Democratic rally September 10.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, another of the contenders for the nomination at Chicago, who will speak in the West and possibly in the East also.

Claude Bowers, keynoter at the 1928 convention, who will be asked to make several addresses.

Walsh to Make Addresses.

Sentaor David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, one of Al Smith's preconvention supporters, who will speak at Portland, Me., September 9, and later in populous Eastern centers.

John F. Fitzgerald, former Mayor of Boston, who will make several addresses.

Representative Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey, who voted for Smith at Chicago and will speak in Connecticut and Massachusetts, which also sent Smith delegations to the convention.

Senator Thomas F. Walsh, of Montana, whose itinerary has not been made up.

John Hemphill, candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania in the last election, who will be asked to do some stumping.

Merchant Leader Advises Nominees

(Associated Press.)

Robert F. Blair, of Cleveland, president of the National League of Commission Merchants, has addressed letters to President Hoover and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, asking them to discuss national policies on agriculture and transportation "in a way that will leave no doubt" as to their programs.

Encouragement of railroad consolidations, a more liberal attitude in regulation, and establishment of a department of transportation under a new cabinet officer were among suggestions made by Blair.

He also complained of the agricultural marketing act and said before "confidence can be reestablished in this field the distributor must be assured that the Federal Government is not to compete with him and is not plotting his destruction."

TWO ARMED MEN ROB THOMAS CIRCLE SHOP

Cooper, of the Second Precinct, who investigated the robbery.

The man who entered the store was described by her as about 35 years old, 5 feet 5 inches in height, weighing about 135 pounds. He wore a dark suit and a light felt hat. She was unable to describe his accomplice, except to say that he appeared very young. While he held the gun against the window, he was unnoticed by any one of the many people in the section.

Theodore D. Sloat, owner of the Garden T Shoppe chain, refused to make public any of the circumstances surrounding the holdup, and refused to permit any of his employes to tell of the occurrence.

The Garden T Shoppes have been made the prey of holdup men. In a holdup eighteen months ago of the Garden T Shoppe at 1835 Columbia road, Mrs. Lizzie Jaynes, the cashier, was fatally wounded by a robber.

HITLER DARES PAPEN TO CLOSE REICHSTAG

Cheered by 20,000 Followers as He Declares Nazis Will Finally Win.

Berlin, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Flaunting a new slogan: "Germany Is Awake," Adolf Hitler brought a national socialist gathering to its feet cheering tonight by challenging Chancellor Franz von Papen to dissolve the Reichstag.

Surrounded by his trusty henchmen in the Sportpalast, he delivered one of his fiery orations in reply to the chancellor's declarations that he could not have a part in ruling Germany nor would he be allowed to upset the government by force of arms.

"Let them dissolve the Reichstag," he shouted, "once, twice, thrice or a hundred times. We shall win through and that soon, for we have the longest wind."

An audience jammed to the rafters jumped up en masse and cheered itself hoarse. Some 20,000 persons, a large percentage of them women, stamped their feet in approbation.

Once more the Fascist chieftain flayed the Republican regime for its acts during the past thirteen years, and shot forensic barbs at Chancellor von Papen for what he called his "Feudal herrenklub" and his "Christian, conservative" outlook.

Hitler scoffed at the idea of his men being admitted to the cabinet "to be tamed," and thundered "we shall take nothing as an act of grace—we shall take office as our right."

"We don't need an army as a prop," he retorted to the government's warning that the Reichswher was behind it, "our backbone is the nation itself."

When Hitler, in full uniform and accompanied by Hermann Goering, new president of the Reichstag, and other associates, mounted the rostrum, he was greeted by the shrill cheers of thousands of women rising above masculine hails.

Two Feared Dead In Texas Floods

Streams in Southwest of State on Rampage Due to Record Rains.

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Streams in southwest Texas were on a rampage today as a result of torrential rains which totaled from four to ten inches and may have taken two lives. In the Eagle Pass section, residents of lowlands moved with their belongings to higher ground. After reaching a peak of 19.7 feet at Eagle Pass, the Rio Grande River receded two feet, but another rise threatened.

A search was conducted for a man and a woman reported to have been swept away in their automobile when they attempted to cross Pinto Creek near Del Rio. A soldier from Fort Clark said he saw them struggling in the water.

Del Rio and Eagle Pass were cut off from traffic over two State highways because of high water and washouts. Between Uvalde and Del Rio flood waters of Sycamore and Pinto Creeks overflowed, impeding travel over highways. In the Sonora area, rainfall was estimated at 10.57 inches.

Five Held in Death Of Realty Dealer

One Defendant Confesses Victim Was Forced to Sign Notes.

Kenosha, Wis., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Five men had beeen arrested tonight in the investigation of the slaying of Robert A. Wilson, real estate operator here who, officials said, was forced to sign away his $40,000 estate before being killed.

Missing since August 24, Mr. Wilson's body was found in a shallow grave on his farm at Lodi, Wis., yesterday. Court action had been started to force collection of a promissory note which he signed, it was established later, under threat of death.

Police announced tha a confession that Mr. Wilson had been slain after he had been kidnaped and forced to sign two notes was made by Frank Tylius, 39, who was arrested with William (Red) Covelli, 35. Both men were described by police as bootleggers. Others arrested today are Frank Cosentine, 32; Frank Infusino, 24, and Victor Dominic, 37, of Racine. The latter is in Sacramento, Calif.

Fish in Storm's Wake Supply Jobless Feasts

Palm Beach, Fla., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—There's truth in the old axiom about it being an ill wind that blows nobody any good. Monday's tropical storm blew a big school of blue fish into the harbor and the unemployed are feasting like kings. More than 100 fish were caught at one pier by men who have been receiving food from charitable agencies.

Northern Ohio Farmers To Form Strike Group

Bowling Green, Ohio, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Farmers of northern Ohio will hold a mass meeting here tomorrow to discuss the organization of an Ohio farm holiday movement, aimed at forcing higher prices for their products.

15 MAIN COMPLAINTS ON WALKER LISTED

Hearings at Albany Based on "Improper and Illegal" Considerations.

New York, Sept 1 (A.P.).—The following is a summary of the principal "conclusions" against Mayor Walker on which removal hearings have been in progress before Gov. Roosevelt:

1. That the mayor failed properly to execute his official duties, that he was actuated by improper and illegal considerations; that his explanations of his official acts were unworthy of credence.

2. That the mayor accepted $26,000 in securities from J. A Sisto & Co., brokers interested in taxicab company securities and thereafter sponsored taxicab legislation desired by this concern.

3. That Russell T. Sherwood, as the mayor's financial agent, received $22,000 from Samuel Ungerleider & Co., a brokerage firm similarly interested in taxicab legislation.

4. That the mayor violated the city charter by holding convertible bonds of the Reliance Bronze & Steel Corporation, which received a city contract for traffic light standards.

Equitable Bus Franchise.

5. That the mayor, to the detriment of the city, sponsored the Equitable bus franchise.

6. That the mayor acted in the Equitable matter to benefit a group of persons, including his friend, State Senator John A. Hastings, of Brooklyn.

7. That the mayor improperly "facilitated the purchase of 300 shares of Interstate Trust Co. stock, 100 of which were subsequently used in connection with Equitable financing.

8. That on the day prior to the signing of the Equitable franchise the mayor received a $10,000 letter of credit, subsequently augmented by a $3,000 overdraft, paid for by J. Allan Smith, one of the Equitable promoters.

9. That the mayor accepted substantial gratuities from Paul Block, publisher, and others.

10. That the mayor caused nearly $1,000,000 to be deposited, including about $700,000 in cash, by Russell T. Sherwood, and failed to give a satisfactory explanation of the source of this money.

Conduct in General.

11. That the mayor failed to aid the Hofstadter legislative committee in its efforts to call Sherwood, now missing, as a witness.

12. That the mayor, in response to a subpena, failed to produce complete records of his finances.

13. That the mayor's testimony before the legislative committee was neither frank nor truthful.

14. That the mayor neglected his duty in failing to prevent his brother, Dr. William H. Walker, from splitting fees with other doctors who received city cases.

15. That the mayor's conduct has in general been such as to render him unfit to continue in the office of mayor.

Crops Suffering From Lack of Rain

6 States in East and South Are Seriously Affected; Planting Delayed.

(United Press.)

Six Eastern and Southern States again are threatened by a drought and the extreme dry period has seriously delayed preparations for winter wheat planting in other sections of the county, the U. S. Weather Bureau revealed last night.

The States which have had little or no rain for more than three months are New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Maryland, Delaware and Virginia. The rainless area also extends into northern North Carolina. Reports to the Weather Bureau said late corn is "burning" and in Pennsylvania some farmers are cutting the stalks and feeding the grain to cows who are suffering as a result of ruined pasture lands.

Wells and streams in many States have gone dry. Rain within the last ten days brought some relief to Michigan, Minnesota and North Dakota.

bell said, violation of one of the political bans would bring a warning first, then a fine and possibly dismissal for the third transgression.

Members of families actually dependent upon the Government salary paid the employe are held equally responsible for avoiding open talk upon debatable public questions. However, Campbell said all could discuss any matter privately with their friends or vote as they choose, either at the polls or at conventions where the questions are brought up.

The regulations would bar them, though, from sitting upon a resolutions committee or taking a more active part than voting.

Text of Statement by Mayor Walker Defending His Course in Resigning

"A letter from my counsel, Mr. John J. Curtin, received today, has caused me to make a momentous decision. That is whether or not I shall refuse to go again to Albany to further subject myself to un-American, unfair proceedings conducted by Gov. Roosevelt against me.

"Three weeks ago I went to Albany with my counsel confident that we would be accorded a fair hearing, conducted in accordance with the rules established under our principles of government.

"My counsel, Mr. Curtin, demanded at the opening of the hearing that the governor summon those witnesses upon whose testimony Mr. Seabury or the governor based the so-called charges against me, in order that I might face them and that my counsel might have an opportunity to cross-examine them. This was denied by the governor. At no time was Mr. Seabury even called upon by the governor to name those witnesses, much less to summon them. As soon as this ruling was made I protested, but without avail.

"Extraordinary Inquisition."

"Day after day during the course of the proceeding it became more and more apparent that I was being subjected to an extraordinary inquisition.

"I was not accorded even the elementary rights guaranteed to any defendant in a court of law. Instead of an impartial hearing, the proceeding before the governor developed into a travesty. A mock trial, a proceeding in comparison to which even the practice of a drum-head court-martial seemed liberal."

"Upon my counsel's insistence, the conduct of this proceeding was submitted to the supreme court in order that the validity of the objections of my counsel might be impartially adjudicated. The court decided on Monday of this week that the governor proceeded in excess of jurisdiction and without warrant of law."

"(1) By denying me the right to which I am entitled under the constitution and the law to confront accusing witnesses and cross-examine them and by his treating accusations as self-proven without supporting evidence.

Jurisdiction Is Denied.

"(2) By considering as charges, upon which he might act adversely, a group of accusations, more than two-thirds of the total number of charges, involving no wrongdoing in fact, and which concerned alleged incidents occuring prior to my second election, over which he has no jurisdiction under the constitution, the statutes, the decisions of the courts, and the rulings of prior executives, including Govs. Charles E. Hughes, David B. Hill and Theodore Roosevelt.

"(3) By considering as charges, upon which he might act adversely, certain incidents involving no element of wrongdoing on my part, relating not only to my official conduct, but to my private affairs and the private affairs of others having no official relation with the City of New York.

"The Supreme Court also held that it was without power to restrain the governor or prevent the invasion by him of my legal rights, which legal rights have been accorded without hesitancy by all prior governors when requested by officials under scrutiny.

Blames Use of Technicality.

"The Supreme Court says that this lack of power results from the governor invoking a technicality—by making a 'special appearance' and refusing to yield jurisdiction to the courts. The court says this leaves me at the mercy of the governor and his avowed determination to subject me to an unlawful and unconstitutional exercise of power—a perversion of executive power—a usurpation of power without color of authority under any statutory or constitutional provision or any judicial or executive decision, all this in order that he may accomplish a wrongful and unlawful end.

"I am told that the governors of numerous States, and even in England, the king, yielded to the courts in order that no one may suffer from an unjust or illegal act of the executive or the crown.

"I am also told that, so far as the courts are concerned at present, I must submit to being outraged by the unlawful acts of the governor. I did not believe that in this day and age any man in this country would assert the right to act above the law, to exercise arbitrary and unlawful power, while conceding he did not in law possess arbitrary power.

"The governor announced he would not yield jurisdiction to the courts, which might restrain him from doing illegal acts leveled at me, unlawful under long-settled prior decisions, even before the pronouncement of Justice Staley. The governor has announced that he will persist in his illegal course. He has so announced at a time when I am informed that if the rights which he denies to me were accorded, the alleged charges would have to be dismissed. But I am told that I am without remedy at the present time in the courts because the governor asserts and stands on an immunity from the process of the courts which has not been asserted even in England since the time of George III, whose assertions of arbitrary power provoked the American Revolutionary War.

Without Remedy in Court.

"I am told that I am without remedy at the present time in the courts, although the conceded and substantial unlawful invasion of my rights is due to a governor who has a personal interest in the outcome of the pending proceeding of a character which would disqualify a judge acting in a corresponding capacity on the ground of bias.

"This indefensible and lawless purpose of the governor has revealed itself throughout the hearing. He has not called upon the accusers, particularly Mr. Seabury, to produce any supporting proof. Despite declarations of fairness, he has been studiously unfair. He has acted as a prosecutor, although the law requires that he be coldly neutral to both accuser and accused, and that he be an impartial judge. He has engaged in a three-cornered, futile cross-examination of my witnesses. He has exhibited discomfiture and displeasure as the unproven charges have been disproved under his eyes by uncontradicted testimony. The burden of proof of my innocence has been cast upon me by the governor's unlawful procedure.

Denied Access to Records.

"He has denied me access to the record of the testimony taken in private hearings by Mr. Seabury, which record was paid for by public money and would be further disproof of the charges which he is prosecuting. He denied me until a day or two ago the work sheets used by Mr. Seabury to build up a false structure of bank and stock accounts with which I have no interest or knowledge, responsibility or accountability, but which, under the unlawful procedure of the governor, I am called upon to have analyzed and to furnish proof that I have no concern or connection with the various items in those accounts. This he has done, although time out of memory the burden rests on the one making an assertion to prove it. He has allowed questions to be propounded and required questions to be answered that even a first-year law student would recognize were not permissible and without probative or binding force upon me.

"While the Supreme Court has said, despite these unlawful acts and excess of jurisdiction on the part of the governor, that I can get no present relief because the governor hides behind the technical immunity plea, yet I am not without a remedy, I can by my own act change the venue. I can change it to the supreme authority, the people themselves. I can change the place of trial so as to take it away from a biased judge acting illegally and in an avowed usurpation of power, with a personal interest in the outcome that disqualifies him as a matter of common decency from acting as a judge in the matter. Mr. Curtin's letter shows that not a shred of justification exists for the refusal of the governor to dismiss the charges. Apart from that it appears:

"1. Not one witness has testified that any act of mine, either of commission or omission, was influenced by an improper, illegal or dishonest consideration.

"2. Not one witness has testified that I either sought or received any money, or anything, as a consideration for any official act of mine.

"3. Not one witness has testified that I have ever done anything, either by malfeasance, misfeasance or nonfeasance, injuriously affecting the City of New York or its citizens.

"4. Not one witness has testified that I have caused the wrongful expenditure or the loss of a single dollar to the people of the city of New York, although upwards of $5,000,000,000 have been expended during my administration as mayor.

Hits Cost of Probe.

"This uncontradicted record stands despite the expenditure of $750,000 devoted exclusively to a man hunt unsuccessfully pursued to find some means of destroying me. In addition, another $100,000 of public funds will have to be provided to defray the expenses of the hearing ordered by the governor—a high price for a mock trial.

"Under these circumstances the question which I am faced with is: Shall I permit myself to be lynched to satisfy prejudice or political ambition?

"I feel if I further submit that I would demean myself as well as the citizens of New York who have twice honored me by electing me mayor by overwhelming majorities because the verdict, whether for or against me, would not be on the merits, but dictated by political expediency.

"I have gone as far as anyone could to prove my willingness to answer questions about every act in my life. I have met my accusers and disproved their charges. I have met Mr. Seabury and answered his every question. I have met the governor and answered his every question. Both exhausted themselves in examining me and told me they had no more questions to ask.

"I have not been given an opportunity to prove my record of service to the city as its mayor for two terms, a record of which I am proud, a record which was acclaimed by the whole city, nor will I be granted such an opportunity from the governor. That is apparent.

"Why, then, continue before him when there is another forum open to me? To that forum, the people of the City of New York. I leave my case in the spirit of true democracy, conscious of the rectitude of my official acts and with a faith in the fair judgment of my fellow citizens.

"I am not trying to avoid responsibility. I am incurring it by submitting my case to the people who made me mayor, the people of the City of New York. To this decision I have been urged by the most loyal and distinguished Democrats in the country."

Walker's Act Confesses Guilt, Seabury Asserts

New York, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Samuel Seabury declared tonight that Mayor James J. Walker's resignation in the face of charges he termed "fully proved" was "equivalent to a confession of guilt."

AT LEAST 3 KILLED IN GULF COAST GALE

Storm Fast Losing Force in Mississippi; Another Reported on Way.

Mobile, Ala., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—At least three lives were lost in the tropical storm which blew inland early today from the Gulf of Mexico near the Alabama-Mississippi State line and tonight was dissipating into squalls in eastern Mississippi.

Frank Benson, 17, of Van Cleve, Miss., survivor of a small schooner that was sunk by high winds 5 miles from Mobile, arrived here tonight and reported that Capt. Joe Dillas, of Van Cleve, master of the schooner, and his helper, drowned.

The other victim was Ben Baker, 12, who died from contact with a live wire blown down in a street in Pensacola, Fla., as the disturbance was passing south of that city last night.

The storm, sweeping across the southern tip of Florida from the Bahamas, took a general northwestward direction into the Gulf Coast.

Losing force after leaving the open sea, the disturbance was described by the Weather Bureau as being confined to heavy rains around which centered only stiff winds. Meridian had only a 22-mile wind, but the barometer there fell to 29.54 as the storm center passed out west of the city.

Small Craft Endangered.

Hurricane and storm warnings along the Alabama and Mississippi coasts were ordered down after 50 to 60 mile winds had lashed the section, endangering small craft in the early hours of the morning.

Fears were expressed for two fishermen who attempted to ride out the storm in a small boat near the lighthouse on Chandeleur Island, 28 miles out from Gulfport, Miss. The lightkeeper reported the men anchored their launch near the light at sundown last night, but were missing this morning. It was believed their craft had foundered or been blown out to sea.

After the storm center had moved inland near the Alabama-Mississippi line, it followed that line uncertainly, veering for a time to the east and then turning back northwestward into central Mississippi, steadily losing force.

Second Storm Reported.

An advisory from the Washington Weather Bureau at 10 a. m. noted a second tropical storm about 150 miles northwest of Puerto Rico, also moving northwestward.

Principal damage in this area appeared to be to trees, telephone and telegraph lines and small craft. Tides on the Mississippi coast remained about normal even when the winds reached 50 to 60 miles an hour.

At Mobile, four persons were rescued from the bay during the night after their small boats were tossed about in heavy seas. The Coast Guard effected similar rescues at Pensacola when a fishing boat containing five men broke upon a reef.

Near Troy, Ala., some distance from the coast, high winds wrecked two homes today and two men were injured.

Chinese Epidemic Kills 30,000.

Hankow, China, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—The cholera epidemic in Shensi province had killed 30,000 persons up to August 15, says a provincial government report from the capital, Sianfu.

MAYOR WALKER RESIGNS POST; PLANS TO SEEK REELECTION

had nothing at all to say, but showed an interest in the criticisms the mayor made of his conduct of the hearings.

Suggested by Counsel.

Walker's formal statement was in effect a reply to a letter he had received today from his chief counsel, John J. Curtin, who was governor's counsel when Alfred E. Smith was in office.

Curtin wrote the mayor that there were two courses open to him. "One," his letter stated, "is to continue to submit to the illegal and unfair proceeding before the governor in which may eventuate an illegal order of removal which would be void from its entry. * * *

"The other course is to submit your case to the people of the City of New York, who, after all, are the ones most concerned."

In his statement the mayor reviewed the hearing, which opened three weeks ago today in Albany, and commented on the decision of Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley who, although he criticised Gov. Roosevelt's procedure, ruled that the courts had no right to interfere.

Attends Brother's Funeral.

Mayor Walker, making his first public appearance for several days today, to attend the funeral of his brother, George F. Walker, would not discuss the hearing and retired, exhausted, to his hotel, with orders, "Don't let anyone disturb me."

Thousands of New Yorkers packed St. Patrick's Cathedral and stood silent along the curb on Fifth avenue today to catch a glimpse of the mayor. Even in the cemetery in Brooklyn there was a crowd of several hundred.

What they saw was a man, pale and grief stricken, obviously ill. A gasp and a murmer ran through the crowd as he passed.

Walker by his resignation tonight ended his second term in office, which would have run until December 31, 1933. He was first elected in 1925 and became mayor January 1, 1926. In 1929 he was reelected by a large majority.

Time of Vote in Doubt.

How long McKee will remain acting mayor is a question on which, as soon as Walker resigned, there was much discussion. It has not yet been decided whether an election may be held this fall or not until a year from now.

The constitution of the State of New York provides in Section 5, Article 10, that "the Legislature shall provide for filling vacancies in office, and, in case of elective officers, no person appointed to fill a vacancy shall hold his office by virtue of such appointment longer than the commencement of the political year next succeeding the first annual election after the happening of the vacancy."

The city charter provides that, if a vacancy occurs in the mayoralty, the president of the board of aldermen shall take office.

"In the case of a vacancy," the charter continues, "he shall so act until noon of the first day of January succeeding the election at which the mayor's successor shall be chosen."

But the date of such an election is not specifically provided for.

Roosevelt Is Silent.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Gov. Roosevelt said he had "nothing at all to say" when informed tonight of the resignation of Mayor James J. Walker of New York.

At the executive mansion, where earlier in the evening he had been going over his plans for resuming the Walker ouster hearing tomorrow, the governor learned through the Associated Press of Walker's withdrawal from office.

He heard with interest Walker's assertion that he had failed at the hearing before Mr. Roosevelt to receive "even the elementary rights guaranteed to any defendant in a court of law."

Walker's act meant the end of the spectacular hearing in the New York State "Hall of Governors," where the mayor spent twelve days defending himself against the 15 "conclusions" of Samuel Seabury.

Campaign Obstacle Removed.

Walker's decision also meant for Roosevelt the removal of an obstacle in his campaign plans. Since his nomination at Chicago the Walker case has occupied many hours of his time, and until tonight threatened to cause a postponement of his major speaking tour throughout the Western States.

Although Mr. Roosevelt had warned against any attempts to interpret in political light the decision he would have had to make on Walker's fitness to remain in office, his close supporters feared that a decision either way would have unfavorable political results.

By removing Mayor Walker, his supporters feared, the governor would alienate Tammany Hall. By exonerating the New York Mayor, they believed, he would lose favor in other parts of the country where his advisers thought such action might be interpreted as yielding to Tammany.

15 Lines Extend Rate Rule Period

Agreement Expected to Win Shipping Board Favor Soon.

(Associated Press.)

Fifteen shipping lines operating between Atlantic and Pacific ports via the Panama Canal have agreed on a six months' extension of present regulations calling for uniform rates on enforcement of trade practices.

The announcement was made yesterday by Chairman O'Connor, of the Shipping Board, who said he had been advised of the decision by Arthur C. Thackara, chairman of the United States intercoastal conference, in session in New York. The agreement must be approved by the Shipping Board, but indications are that will be done soon. It continues until March 31, 1933.

Chairman O'Connor said in a statement the decision represents "a victory for the advocates of common sense and reason to avoid the huge losses which would occur in another rate war."

Mercury Reaches 102 Again at Martinsburg

Martinsburg, W. Va., Sept. 1.—The thermometer went to an official 102 for the second successive day here today, hottest of the summer, with a minimum of 70 last night. Some prostrations were reported. Walter Anderson suffered a nearly fatal prostration before being revived. Jesse Alderson, orchard worker, was taken to a physician for treatment.

Industries and outdoor labor projects were restricted because of the heat; one downtown office was closed. Fruit growers expressed concern over both the high temperatures and absence of rain.

MRS. POLLAK FREED IN SLAYING OF MATE

Women Spectators Cheer as Judge Holds She Slew in Self-Defense.

Chicago, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Amid the soprano cheers of an unruly courtroom audience, Dorothy Pollak won her freedom today from blame for the killing of her husband.

Judge Harry M. Fisher accepted her story that despite Joe Pollak's threats and beatings and unfaithfulness she loved him, then shot him dead as he rushed at her, knife in hand.

"The law of self-defense," Judge Fisher said, "is the law of nature and the right of every human being."

The comely widow, pale, bewildered, slumped in her chair, a chorus of cheers rose from the feminine audience. The crowd followed Mrs. Pollak into the jury room, swarming about her and showering kisses.

Soon she was able to gain composure and make a statement.

"The first thing I am going to do is to see Joe," she said. "I am going to his grave tomorrow morning. I still love him. I feel badly about what I did."

She thought the judge was "nice," had "looked at it in the right way."

Her trial for the killing of Joe Pollak in their home July 27 had taken less than three days. The State had been rebuffed in attempts to present a Filipino alleged to have been a former husband of the defendant—She testified Pollak was her only mate—and failed to find Symon Myasa, the widow's father, wanted as a State witness.

Then the defense offered but one witness.

The pretty brunette herself, whose dramatic narrative brought the trial to a climax today. State and defense rested without arguments.

From their marriage in 1929, Joe beat and kicked her, she related, and threatened to "cut her heart out"—but through it all she loved him.

The delegation to the district convention at Harrisonburg, September 5, was instructed to vote for Mr. Smith, secretary of the late Congressman Harry St. George Tucker, as the party nominee.

AIR PLANS STUDIED AT CAMP POLLARD

29th Division Staff Also Is Instructed on Principles of Counter Attack.

Special to The Washington Post.

Camp Pollard, Virginia Beach, Va., Sept. 1.—Continuing to act as the staff of the Red Division, officers of the Twenty-ninth Division staff were addressed today by Lieut. Col. William D. Tipton, of Baltimore, division air officer, on the "Red Air Plan." He discussed the probable plan of the Red Division air officer attacking the coast in the vicinity of Virginia Beach.

Among the important points covered by Col. Tipton were smoke curtains to cover landing parties. Bombing expeditions against important railroad centers, Langley Field, Fort Monroe, Fort Story and artillery positions, and the manner in which airplane carriers function off shore.

Following the discussion on the air plans, Lieut. Col. George Henderson, assistant chief of staff, in civilian life the Mayor of Cumberland, Md., lectured on the general principles of "counter attack," today's problem. He spoke on the elements of his subject such as surprise, direction, time, &c., placing emphasis on the fact that plans for an attack of this type should be laid in advance, in order that no time will be lost in execution of a decision. The officers then proceeded to the solution of the problem.

Fort Inspected.

This afternoon, under the leadership of Maj. L. McD. Sylvester, U. S. Army instructor, the staff went to Fort Story to inspect the fort. Its armament and protective elements. They were received by Lieut. Harriman, commanding officer of Fort Story, who conducted the tour of inspection.

An inspection of the general camp area by Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan, commanding general, disclosed the fact that the headquarters detachment, a Washington unit commanded by Lieut. David W. Milne, won first prize with the cleanest mess shack in the area. Sergt. Howell K. Stephans, A. G. P. O., is in charge of the mess.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—The "blue" army, constituting the defending force, after several days of rather sharp and unpleasant encounter with the "red" or attacking army today turned on the enemy and counter-attacked with success. Tomorrow it is likely that the defenders, who all week have been pursued, will turn the pursuers, in order that the invading "red" army may be driven back from its brief invasion of the Virginia seacoast.

That was the status of the war problem with which the Twenty-ninth National Guard Division staff has been concerned during its two-week field training period which closes at the State Rifle Range Saturday.

Counter-Attack Succeeds.

The counter-attack today was pronounced successful and while there is always the possibility of mishap—even in war as it is conducted on paper—the chances of the battle will end in victory for the defenders tomorrow, "observers" said. Saturday the division staff will wind up its field period with a critique, in which all phases of the war problem worked out during the training period will be discussed, mistakes will be considered and errors checked.

The division staff officers today were back with their own men after having spent the day before as enemy officers.

explained he was forced to throttle down on his first dash into the wind, when he attained his lowest average.

He expected that the ship wouldn't be ready for another try for the record until Saturday, leaving the field open tomorrow to James Wedell, of Patterson, La., and James Haizlip, of Ferguson, Mo. transnation speed kin, to try their mounts over the course.

Turner May Try Again.

Col. Roscoe Turner, California cross-country flier, said he might measure his ship again over the straightaway, four dashes today netting him an average of 261.414 miles an hour. Wedell, builder of the planes flown by Haizlip, Turner and himself, rates them all equally.

With the men fastening their eyes on a 300-mile an hour goal, Miss Florence Klingensmith, young Minneapolis flier, borrowed the clipped wing monoplane owned by John H. Livingston, of Aurora, Ill., and was timed in four laps over the straightaway at 198.611 miles an hour.

Her fastest run was 206.549 miles an hour, indicating the annual women's high speed classic to be run Sunday may mark a new record for the event. It was won last year by Mrs. Maude Tait Moriarity, of Springfield, Mass., with an average speed of 187.574 miles an hour.

Free-for-All Race.

S. J. Whitman, of Oshkosh, Wis., took the measure of Ben O. Howard, Chicago-Kansas City mail pilot, in a free-for-all race for planes with engines of 350 cubic inch displacement. Whitman averaged 132.246 miles an hour to win $360. Howard averaged 127.847 miles an hour to win $200, and Roger Don Rae, of Cleveland, won third prize money of $120 by averaging 107.724 miles an hour.

Bough Davis, of Atlanta, Ga., won $270 by averaging 127.47 miles an hour in a commercial plane race. He was followed by Art Davis, of East Lansing, Mich., and L. W. Zeiger, of New York City.

In a sportsman pilot race, William A. Warrick, jr., of Cleveland, averaged 102.014 miles an hour to win. Paul S. Bloom, of Davenport, Iowa, finished second, followed by K. G. Olderman, of Cleveland.

Art Davis, beaten in one race, came back to lead a field of commercial planes with an average speed of 120.481 miles an hour. Jack Morris, of Pittsburgh, Pa., finished second and Marcellus King, of Fairmont, Minn., third.

Races Kept by Cleveland.

The national air races will return again next year to Cleveland.

Assurance that the city will continue its plan of holding the races for a period of five years was given today when L. W. Greve, president of the race corporation, posted the $12,500 guarantee required by the National Aeronautic Association.

The current races are the second of the five-year program scheduled for Cleveland. Not until 1936 will the city's five-year option expire, and there appeared little likelihood on the part of race officials that they will voluntarily surrender the races before that time.

Attendance at this year's races for the first five days has proven disappointing to officials. One rainy day and a sparsely attended opening day has cut the five-day attendance to barely 50,000. It has been estimated that a total attendance for the ten days' period of 300,000 is necessary to take the big show out of the red.

There is every probability, sponsors feel, that the ensuing five days, including the Labor Day week-end, will bring out the crowds needed to make up the difference.

Montagu Norman Off On New Mystery Trip

Bar Harbor, Me., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, left here late today for an undisclosed destination. Inquiry at the summer home of Mrs. John Markoe, of Philadelphia, where he had been a guest, brought the bare confirmation of his departure.

Earlier information said the financier was to travel "by motor part of the way," but no indication of his ultimate destination was given.

Oysters Abundant As Season Opens

17,000 Men Will Be Needed to Harvest Crop of 15 Million Bushels.

(Associated Press.)

The official opening of the oyster season yesterday brought good news both to the unemployed and the epicure.

In estimating that approximately 17,000 men would be needed to harvest a 15,000,000-bushel crop, Acting Commissioner Lewis Radcliffe, of the Fisheries Bureau, said the bivalves this year were abundant and of a good quality.

There was further bad news for the oyster in his announcement. The fish expert said increased use of quick freezing methods would, in his opinion, extend the season beyond the "R" months to the year round. On the basis of the 1930 figures, Radcliffe said, the Chesapeake Bay district will lead others in oyster production. Virginia oystermen are expected to harvest approximately 2,800,000 bushels and Maryland about 2,300,000 bushels.

ILLINOIS COAL WAGE COMMITTEE NAMED

Program for United Action of Foes of $5 Basic Scale Is Due Today.

Gillespie, Ill., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—A committee of 24 members, two from each of the coal mining subdistricts in the State, was appointed tonight to formulate a program for united action by miners of Illinois opposed to the $5 basic wage scale contract signed recently by union officials.

After appointment of the committee, the "rank and file" meeting which opened here today was adjourned until tomorrow morning, when the committee is expected to present its program.

Petitions asking removal of District President John W. Walker and other officials of the Illinois district of the United Mine Workers of America were presented at today's meeting. Claude Pearcy, of Gillespie, who was elected permanent chairman of the meeting, said tonight the petitions already received bore the signatures of 10,000 miners opposed to the $5 wage scale, and that additional petitions still were being received.

Pearcy said that under the by-laws of the State union, petitions bearing the signatures of only 5 per cent of the union members made it mandatory upon union officials to hold a referendum on the recall of district officers. The petitions already received, he said, are several times as many as are necessary.

Demands for the old basic wage scale of $6.10 a day and 91 cents a ton for hand loaders, to replace the $5 scale and a tonnage rate of 68 cents recently adopted, and a six-hour day and five-day week will be considered tomorrow.

Booth Sees Heavy Winter in Aid Work

(Associated Press.)

Leaving a conference with President Hoover, Gen. Ballington Booth, leader of the Volunteers of America, said yesterday he had reported his organization already had aided more than 186,000 families, "with every indication that this number will be surpassed during the next twelve months."

Gen. Booth said he expressed to the President an opinion that the next winter would be a heavy one for charity organizations, but that he looked for a diminution in such activity by next spring.

JUDGE JAMES ALLAN DIES IN VIENNA AT 88

Union Veteran Was Mayor of Town Four Times; to Be Buried Tomorrow.

Judge James Allan, said to be the first Union Army veteran to be elected mayor in a State below the Mason-Dixon line, died yesterday at his home in Vienna, Va. He was 88 years old and had held practically every town office in Vienna in his 25 years' residence there.

On April 14, this year, he and his wife, Mrs. Mathilda Allan, who survives, celebrated their sixty-second wedding anniversary. They were married at Sherman, Wis., in 1870.

Judge Allan served throughout the Civil War with the Twenty-seventh Wisconsin Volunteers. He participated in the Vicksburg campaign. He was born in Brooklyn, N. Y.

He had served a term in the Wisconsin Legislature, before he moved to Vienna in 1907. There he was four times elected mayor and also served several years as justice of the peace.

Survivors, besides his wife, are two daughters, Mrs. Frank A. Wilcox and Mrs. A. A. Greenwood, of Vienna, and a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Robinson.

Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery tomorrow, preceded by funeral services at his home at 10 a. m. The Rev. William S. Seligman, pastor of the Fort Myer Heights Baptist Church, will conduct the services.

Finance Chieftain Lauds Home Banks

More Mortgage Credit Is Held Recovery Key at Pittsburgh.

French Lick, Ind., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—William E. Best, of Pittsburgh, president of the United States Building and Loan League, opened the league's fortieth annual convention today with a prediction of a revival of the home-building industry through operations of the home loan banking system.

Best urged building and loan associations throughout the country to support the new banking system. Normal business conditions can not return, he said, until "mortgage credit is made available to the small home owner and to the individual who desires to build a home."

A message from Roy D. Chapin, Secretary of Commerce, read to the convention, said that those attending the business recovery conference held recently by President Hoover "placed greatest reliance" upon the prompt functioning of the home loan bank system as a means of relieving home owners faced with the problem of renewing or refunding their mortgages.

Borah Says Reich Justified in Plea

Feels, However, Equality Should Be Effected by Cuts by Others.

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—In the opinion of Senator Borah, chairman of the Senate committee on foreign affairs, Germany is justified in her demands for equality in armaments, but he believes it should be brought about by other nations reducing armaments.

Commenting on the unofficial demand from Germany for increased military strength, Senator Borah said: "The terms of the Versailles treaty justify Germany's demand for equality. But it is to be hoped that equality will be secured by other countries reducing their armaments rather than by Germany building up to the other countries.

"At a time when the world is nearing an economic collapse it is to be hope dthat equality will be realized by lifting the burden rather than by increasing the burden which the people of the world are now carrying. The leading countries are now extorting from, if not robbing the pockets of the people of over $5,000,000,000 a year for armaments. Equality by adding to that burden would be a crime."

No Errors Found In County Audit

Montgomery Check Shows Books of Officials in Good Condition.

State auditors have completed the audit of the books of the Montgomery County officials who handle State funds and reported that they found the books in excellent condition. The audit was made in accordance with the usual procedure of auditing the county books annually.

The books of Clayton K. Watkins, clerk of the Circuit Court; Frank I. Davis, clerk of the Police Court; J. Forrest Walker, county treasurer; Hanson Cashell, register of wills, and Sheriff Richard H. Lansdale were gone over.

The auditors approved the system which has been installed in the office of the clerk of the circuit court for handling of cash. The books of the office are balanced daily under the new system and the money received in the course of the day is then deposited the next day in the bank.

If so, Mgr. Fumasoni-Biondi would be made a cardinal at the November consistory and assume one of the highest posts in the Roman Catholic Church.

SECRETS OF WAR CHEMISTRY DISCLOSED

EXPLOSIVES, FERTILIZERS AND OIL MADE FROM AIR, WATER AND COAL BY HYDROGENATION

It is now revealed that in the discovery of "hydrogenation" Germany's ability to "carry on" may be explained. Hydrogenation provided for an unlimited supply of explosives and fertilizer. It even promised a solution of the oil problem.

STANDARD OIL ACQUIRES HYDROGENATION

The development of the process of hydrofining (the catalytic hydrogenating of petroleum) to make motor oil is generally regarded as of the greatest importance to the oil industry and to the world.

The American rights to the process of hydrogenation have been acquired by the Standard Oil Company (N. J.) from the I. G. Farbenindustrie of Germany.

(Copr. 1932, Esso, Inc.)

HYDROFINED OIL REPLACES "STANDARD" MOTOR OIL

Essolube, the only hydrofined oil, is now available to every motorist at the price of ordinary motor oils.

This oil is a result of the great hydrogenation discovery. Hydrogenation of atmospheric nitrogen was the chemical secret that enabled Germany to produce unlimited quantities of explosives and thus to "carry on" years after the experts considered her continued struggle impossible.

Hydrofining, developed by the Standard Oil scientists, is an advanced process which makes the hydrogenation of motor oil commercially possible.

Hydrofining gives Essolube all the five essential qualities for complete lubrication.

Paraffinic oils have three of these essential qualities. Naphthenic (Asphaltic) oils have two of them. Essolube, by hydrofining, combines all five qualities. There has been no commercial method before hydrofining that could combine in one lubricant the good qualities of these two types of oil.

Essolube is so superior to all other oils that we are not only proud to name it after its companion product in quality, Esso, "more powerful than any gasoline," but we have replaced the widely known "Standard" Motor Oil with this new product.

Hydrofined Essolube sells at no extra cost.

It is on sale at all stations and dealers of the following companies: Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, Standard Oil Company of Pennsylvania, Standard Oil Company of Louisiana, Standard Oil Company, Incorporated in Kentucky, Colonial Beacon Oil Company, Inc.

NOBEL PRIZE TO DRS. BOSCH AND BERGIUS

HYDROGENATION SCIENTISTS GET HIGHEST HONOR

Announcement of the division of the 1931 Nobel Prize for chemistry between Dr. Bosch and Dr. Bergius, both of Heidelberg, Germany, brings before the world the story of what is perhaps the most important single achievement of modern industrial chemistry—the fixation of hydrogen to reproduce by synthesis a variety of natural basic products of enormous commercial importance.

Although not collaborators, and only by chance both residents of this same ancient seat of European learning and romance, the activities of these two scientists followed converging lines almost from the beginning of their labors, and from the standpoint of chemical industry merged in the achievement of commercial hydrogenation of a new type.

ECONOMY AND THE BUDGET.

Budget-making for the fiscal year 1934 begins in earnest this month. Departmental estimates were completed yesterday and submitted to the Budget Bureau. That agency now faces the onerous task of working out a budget that will keep Federal spending down to a level with the Government's income.

It may be assumed that the Budget Bureau will trim out every needless item requested by department heads. Under the guidance of President Hoover the bureau will doubtless put economy above every other consideration. Public opinion demands a reduction of governmental expenditures. Every public official may expect to be judged on his attitude toward relief for taxpayers. Yet the trimming of the Federal budget is a very complicated process, and will not easily be accomplished.

A better understanding of this task on the part of the public would be helpful. The President is charged with the duty of submitting an annual budget to Congress, but the President has no authority over expenditures that are fixed by law. He merely recommends what should be allotted to each department and agency. Congress may or may not accept his advice. In the past it has been a general practice in Congress to eliminate some items recommended by the President and the Budget Bureau, and then to approve other vast expenditures not included in the budget. Paring down the budget to conform to available revenue is only a first step toward economy.

Reformers who speak of slashing billions from the Federal budget would have the public believe that reduction of Government expenditures is a very simple matter. One popular formula is to return to some past budget that was substantially lower than that for the present year. It is claimed that $1,000,000,000 could be saved by returning to the budget of 1927. That is undoubtedly true, but no one ever explains how the 1927 budget could be made to fit the needs of 1932. Five years ago the country was prosperous. There was no need for reconstruction work, Government building to relieve unemployment, and many other activities that are considered absolutely essential today. Would the advocates of the 1927 budget scrap the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the cooperative marketing system set up by the Farm Board, and dozens of other agencies that have come into being because of the exigencies of recent years?

Furthermore, the operation of some laws becomes increasingly expensive even though no further legislation is enacted. This is particularly true of legislation designed to relieve distress among disabled war veterans. Talk of applying the 1927 budget to 1934 conditions is merely idle chatter.

Extensive savings can and should be made in the 1934 budget. But they can not be brought about by adopting an obsolete budget or by eliminating a few bureaus. The most careful planning by the Budget Bureau will still leave untouched the major sources of extravagance, for which Congress is responsible. The entire cost of the executive departments, Congress and the courts amounts to less than 10 per cent of the total Federal expenditures. Substantial economies depend upon changes in basic law by Congress. Unless the public is ready to support such changes at the polls, by electing Congressmen who are pledged to specific as well as general economies, there is not much hope of easing the burden on taxpayers.

LOCAL RELIEF PROBLEMS.

The Community Chest and the District Committee on Unemployment Relief are badly pressed for funds. The Community Chest has borrowed money in order to keep going, and the relief committee is obliged to make a reduction of 40 per cent in the dispensing of the $350,000 relief fund granted by Congress, in order to carry the work along until Congress can provide additional funds. Rigid economies in administration, including salary cuts, have been applied.

That an appropriation must be made by Congress to care for the unemployment situation in the District during the coming year is now a certainty. The people of the District have contributed to the limit of their capacity. The Community Chest will ask for approximately 10 per cent less than last year's total, and it will be lucky to reach its goal. Nevertheless, every effort will be made to bring out local benevolence to the utmost, and doubtless Congress will be shown that the District is doing its very best.

Some of the pledges given to the Community Chest have not yet been redeemed. These should be paid as fast as contributors can do so, in order to relieve the pressure upon the unfortunate. It is commonly supposed throughout the country that the great Government agencies set up by Congress furnish abundant employment for District residents, but this is not the case. The Home Loan Bank board, for example, employs only a scanty force of 35 individuals, although regional banks will employ large forces when in full operation. Unemployment is a serious problem, in Washington as everywhere else.

MORE FARM CREDIT.

Cotton, which has long seemed to be friendless, has suddenly come into its own again, and its own prosperity appears to bring more support. The rise of price of $20 a bale in the last two months has added hundreds of millions to the value of holdings and of the new crop. Now, Director Jesse H. Jones has announced that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has authorized a fund of $50,000,000 to aid cotton co-operatives and cotton stabilization corporations.

No details of the plan agreed upon are yet available, nor is the Farm Board prepared to say whether the much-discussed question of withholding the cotton controlled by the board will be a part of the program. The cotton in the hands of the American Cotton Cooperative Association and similar organizations, amounting to about 1,200,000 bales, is controlled by the Farm Board. Great pressure from many sections has been brought to bear on the board recently with a view to having the board announce a decision to sell no cotton this year.

It was believed that such a decision would cause a rise in prices, though there are also many adherents of a different school who believe that the Government holdings of both wheat and cotton will always hang over the market with deleterious effects until they are disposed of. Quite recently the Farm Board has advised at least one governor that there had been no change in the policy of the board, which contemplates the sale of about half of its stabilization stock of cotton as fast as the market will permit, without unsettling prices.

In eight of the land bank districts it is reported that plans are under way to create regional agricultural credit corporations. Provision was made for securing capital for such banks from the R. F. C. in sufficient quantities to make "loans and advances to farmers for agricultural purposes, including the orderly marketing of their produce and the necessary credit facilities therefor." This is another large order for Uncle Sam, but he is determined that none shall lack credit who wish to do legitimate business.

Just how far this plan will attempt to duplicate in various small-scale operations what the Farm Board has been trying so hard to do can not be foreseen. Certainly the board's attempts at "orderly marketing" have been severely criticized, even by many farmers. Modern marketing methods have in many sections of the country done much to maintain prices and stabilize farm incomes. The success of such enterprises, naturally, lies in the fullest cooperation and competent management. There is always danger that the best of private plans, when turned into government-financed organizations, may not enlist the keen personal interest and economies that make the private cooperatives successful. The most watchful care will be required in connection with this widespread plan just as it is in government financing of large corporations and self-liquidating enterprises.

LOW FOOD PRICES.

The increases in commodity prices have not yet had any general effect upon retail prices or the cost of living, as represented by provisions for the family table or restaurant prices. It has been a long time since food expenses required so small a proportion of the personal or household budget. The farmers have suffered from low prices, but the purchaser of his products has been living well on very little outlay.

Many housewives have found it possible to provide a satisfactory family fare for half what it cost a few years ago, while numerous good restaurants and cafes are serving substantial dinners at prices well within a dollar. Further down the scale, lunch counters are today charging modest prices for food that quite recently would have seemed impossible.

New York has long been famous for its nickel automats and various types of cheap food dispensaries, but it remained for Bernarr MacFadden, the publisher, to eclipse the world record in the way of cheap eating houses. He is opening a number of 1 cent cafeterias. Services costs but a penny, and a nourishing meal can be had for 5 cents. The first of these places is already in operation on West 43rd Street. Others will be started in Harlem, the lower East Side and Brooklyn.

While, naturally, these establishments are not intended to be money-making concerns, Mr. Macfadden does expect to operate them without loss. Long interested in dietetics, the sponsor of this unique system of Penny Restaurants will put to practical test his belief that sufficient nourishing food can be provided for 5 cents a meal.

GERMANY'S DEMANDS.

An aide memoire has been handed by the German ambassador at Paris to the French foreign minister, reminding France that Germany expects the powers to accomplish genuine reduction of armaments in accordance with their implied pledge when Germany was disarmed, and intimating that Germany will withdraw from the disarmament conference if progress is not made toward equalizing armaments. Germany lays stress upon the inadequacy of her national defenses in comparison with heavily armed neighbors.

The text of this aide memoire has not been made public, but it can hardly constitute an "ultimatum," as it is described in dispatches. Germany is not in a position to deliver an ultimatum to France. She can, however, withdraw from the disarmament conference, and thereby greatly embarrass France and other nations which are trying to deceive the world into believing that they are sincerely trying to reduce armaments. One of the reasons for carrying on this false propaganda is the belief in Europe that the United States will be easy upon its debtors if they make a show of trying to reduce armaments.

Perhaps the true object of the German reminder to France is to win favor for the German government at home. The German demand for equalization of armaments—that is, a general reduction of all armaments or an increase of German armament up to the others' level—is an integral part of the Hitler program. This demand is essentially a demand for revision of the Treaty of Versailles. Hitler gains much of his strength by hammering upon the fact that Germany is stripped of defenses at a time when other powers are hypocritically increasing their armaments while pretending to negotiate in good faith for mutual reduction. In order to checkmate Hitler the government under von Hindenburg steals the chief plank of his platform. Gen. von Schleicher, minister of defense, breathes threatenings and slaughter in interviews obviously intended for home consumption. He foretells the collapse of the League of Nations and a revolution in Germany unless France will agree to revision of the Treaty of Versailles. Hitler could go no further than this.

Premier Herriot of France is conferring with British authorities on the subject of Germany's threat to withdraw from the disarmament conference. Evidently the Anglo-French entente cordiale born at Lausanne is to be tested. There should be no difficulty in reaching an agreement for common action, since both France and Great Britain are determined to maintain their war defenses. They got together several years ago, when it was necessary to block American insistence upon cruiser parity with England. At that time Britain agreed to withdraw objections to the French scheme for omitting trained reserves in reckoning a nation's land forces, and France agreed to back Britain in insisting upon a cruiser strength superior to that of America. They can agree now to block Germany's plan to force reduction of armaments.

A civil service employe in Indiana was dismissed recently for helping to frame a resolution on the bonus. Government workers had better be careful of what they say about breakfast foods and golf.

Cal Coolidge is about to publish an article entitled "The Case for the Republican Party." If the intelligent compositor substitutes "casket" for "case," let there be a Senate investigation.

Germany notifies France that she intends to build up armaments, and then applies a heavy tariff on American saxophones. That country is determined to come back.

The President prepares to prune the budget while certain Congressmen figure on next year's supply of pork-bar'l staves and hoops.

A hurricane is roaring through Alabama, but in Texas there is ominous quiet until the vote for "Ma" Ferguson is officially counted.

There may be a truce in the Bolivian Chaco, but no one can make a farmers' truce effective in the Gran Chaco of Iowa.

Andy Mellon managed to catch a steamer for England before he was overtaken by the Hound of the Baskervilles.

Any politician could have told the scientists that an eclipse is accompanied by fog.

Say what you will, Al Smith will never disown his che-ild, the repeal plank.

PUTTING OYSTERS TO SLEEP

From the Boston Transcript.

A lady in the Bureau of Fisheries at Washington says that opening an oyster in the ruthless fashion practiced by oyster bar men is equivalent to a major operation. "They should stop inflicting needless pain upon the lowly bivalves," she says, "and use a mild anesthetic." This will put them to sleep and at the same time cause their shells to open, like the mouth of a snoring burgher. If they come to at all, it will be to the blissful twilight sleep that accompanies immersion in a stew, or slipping in a raw state down the beautiful white throat of a blonde gold digger in a New York night club.

The lady does not say whether a chloroformed oyster tastes as good as one that goes to its martyrdom with all its wits about it, but some of us will feel a repugnance about sitting down to half a dozen Cotuits that have been laid out as if in preparation for a delicate piece of surgery, steeped in poppy and mandragora and other drowsy sirups that rob them of their gustatory appeal. Even at the risk of acquiring a reputation for cruelty to dumb animals we shall go on preferring our oysters unanesthetized. We are ready, like Lewis Carroll's Walrus, to "shed a bitter tear" while picking out those of largest size, for we are not like the sanguinary Englishman whose first reaction to the stimulus of a beautiful morning is that he must go out rejoicing and kill something.

So far we will go, though we are not ready to concede all that the lady claims. The evidence of the oyster's anguish at having its shell pried open is all on her side. We should like to hear from the oyster. Has it ever lifted up its voice in protest like its cousin, the famous Duxbury clam, whose dirge-like plaint, thin and clear, is heard sweeping over the strand there when the moon is low and the tide is far out? The oyster has no such power. It can not even murmur, like the spirit in an abalone shell. Not until we hear over the radio an oyster calling upon us piteously to take our bluepoints with a dash of laudanum instead of tabasco sauce shall we begin to take seriously the Washington lady's complaint of the oyster opener's inhumanity to the oyster.

CAN I GO, TOO?"

This is Janet's constant cry:
"Can I go, too?"
"On my way to work!" say I.
"Can I go, too?"
"Maybe on my homeward way
I'll stop and see the Browns today."
And little Janet's sure to say:
"Can I go, too?"

All day long we hear her shout:
"Can I go, too?"
Every time we venture out:
"Can I go, too?"
Weddings, funerals, dinners, teas,
When our outer wraps she sees,
Little Janet starts to tease:
"Can I go, too?"

"Where you going?" and we tell.
"Can I go, too?"
"Stores where things are kept to sell."
"Can I go, too?"
"Barber shop! I won't be long!
Jail to help a boy gone wrong."
This is Janet's constant song:
"Can I go, too?"

Strange the house did we not hear:
"Can I go, too?"
Sweet it falls upon the ear:
"Can I go, too?"
Happiest grown-up folks are they,
Who whene'er they start away
Have a little girl to say:
"Can I go, too?"

All Dogs Seem Vicious to the Man Who Has Met a Few Bad Ones

By ROBERT QUILLEN

ONE evening years ago I sat in front of a hotel in south Georgia listening to the after-dinner conversation of the Confederate gentry.

No ladies being present, their sex as usual became the subject of debate and as usual led to conflict. An ill-favored youth who seemed out of his element held the floor for some minutes and finished by saying: "All girls will fall when the right man comes along."

A lean young man who had taken no part in the conversation turned in his chair and said coldly: "That's a lie."

The youth who had given offense got quickly to his feet, as the code demanded, and declared hotly that he wouldn't take that off of nobody.

The other young man did not stir. "I'm afraid you'll have to take it," he drawled contemptuously. "Your remark covered too much territory. If all the girls you know are like that, it simply means that you have no opportunity to associate with the other kind."

Times and customs have changed since then, but that bit of truth remains true today. Our opinions are absorbed from environment and experience.

The ordinary man is a provincial, whether he lives in a village or a metropolis. His vanity makes people of other regions seem inferior to those who share his environment, but with that exception he judges the race by the few specimens he knows.

If he never has witnessed cruelty, the worst of men seems kind at heart; if he has no experience of honor, the best of men are secret rogues wholly unworthy of trust.

You will hear men say that chastity is a thing of the past—that all modern girls, though perhaps careful to preserve the semblance of virtue, are nevertheless amateur sisters of Jezebel.

I do not question their honesty. Their list of acquaintances may include no other kind of girl. But if that is true, it proves nothing except their own ill fortune.

I have lived in thirteen States, and I have learned that no region has a monopoly of vice or virtue. There are good and bad people everywhere and you find the kind for which you search. Your taste finds the material for your opinions.

I once heard a man guffaw in derision when another mentioned the deep purple of wild violets. He had spent his life in the Southeast, where wild violets are lavender and scentless.

PRO AND CON

No Favors for Sale.

Houston Post.

In refutation of the oft-expressed assertion that there is no difference between the Republican and Democratic parties is the declaration of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt in opening the drive for campaign contributions that "the Democratic party is not for sale."

The Governor, and the finance chiefs of the Democratic campaign, Evans Woolen and former Gov. Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia, realize that they must look to the people of moderate and small means for the bulk of contributions to finance the Roosevelt-Garner campaign. Not that there are no wealthy men and women in the Democratic party. There are many, and a great many of them will make liberal donations.

But the Democratic finance committee can not secure great gifts from privilege seeking corporations, because the Democratic party has no privileges to offer in return for the cash. Opposition to allowing special privileges is a cardinal principle of the Democratic party. It can promise only action that is believed to be for the best interest of all the people in the country.

Gov. Roosevelt at Seagirt.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The strength of Gov. Roosevelt's Seagirt speech is that he and his party have adopted an honest position toward prohibition, while Mr. Hoover and the Republicans are resorting to the old army game of appealing to both sides in this hotly controversial question. Lack of candor in politics has elected many men to office, but there comes a time when even the exigencies of professional politics dictate a bold and open course. As to prohibition, that time has come. The debate is over. Prohibition by constitutional amendment is a notorious failure. The Democrats propose we rid ourselves of it by expunging it from the Constitution. What the Republicans propose to do lies hidden among the conflicting statements of Mr. Hoover, Mr. Curtis and the party platform.

Bonus Patriotism.

Chicago Tribune.

By a vote of 499 to 138 the New York conventin of the American Legion demands the immediate payment of the so-called veterans' bonus. This action was taken at the climax of an exciting and at times wildly disorderly session, says the news account. It is an appropriate result of excitement and disorder. It does not represent deliberation and good sense. It does not represent even the self-interest of the majority of ex-service men. If granted, it would bring consequences not only to the ex-service men, but to the whole Nation, which in present conditions would be disastrous. As President Coolidge said in 1923, "the Government has not money to distribute to any class of its citizens that it does not take from the pockets of the people, and the payment of a bonus to millions of our former soldiers could only be accomplished at a cost to the whole community, including the veterans themselves, far outweighing the benefits intended to be conferred."

Political Salesmen.

Boston Transcript.

You can sell yourself to some of the people all of the time and to all of the people some of the time, but not to all of the people all of the time.

Criminal Charges.

Christian Science Monitor.

The manner as well as the matter of Gov. Roosevelt's Columbus address has caused reverberations which, even in usually sympathetic quarters, have not been altogether favorable to the Democratic candidate for the Presidency. In the Columbus speech it was charged that the Administration was "not honest" and that its "real crime" was that it "did not tell the truth" about the condition of business in October, 1929. President Hoover's message two months later contained "ghastly humor," it was said, and presidential policies "risked the lives and property of the people." This is strong language even for the polemics of a presidential campaign.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Alexandria Dry Says Greed Is Behind Demand for Repeal.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, or the A. A. P. A., for short, now claims that the repeal of the eighteenth amendment is a social reform. If so it will be one of the first since the world began, whose leadership was predominantly, almost exclusively, led by the wealthiest class in the country.

The extraordinary enthusiasm of the Nation's multimillionaires is not because repeal might benefit the working classes. When millionaires decide to go into the reform business ask yourself, Mr. Street Man, if it is not because their night and day dream is of the good old American dollar.

Every intelligent voter should read the story unfolded by the lobby committee of the United States Senate, a most sordid chapter in the long and shady story of the greedy and unscrupulous liquor traffic. It was found that the A. A. P. A. had only about 10,000 due-paying members and that out of $425,000 received in dues or donations in one year, eight millionaires gave 47 per cent of this total amount, 20 millionaires gave 64 per cent of the total and 53 had furnished 75 per cent of the $425,000. In other words, this great wet organization is run by half a hundred millionaires, who amount to .00000004 per cent of our total population. The investigation revealed the challenging fact that these big boys behind the A. A. P. A. are working with might and main to get liquor back so as to relieve themselves of income and corporation taxes.

The saddest part of this story is that thousands of people, the Nation over, are falling for this, hook, line, and sinker, because they hear it said that prohibition is a failure. The average citizen does not know the A. A. P. A. is behind the scene giving voice to this propaganda. Greed has always been the driving force in the liquor traffic, and today it lies in wait to ensnare the American people as it did in the days of 177,000 open saloons.

E. D. V.

Alexandria, Va.

Recommends Government Sale of Liquor for Revenue Purposes.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Referring to the interesting letter of Albert Sidney Lanier to The Post concerning Federal control of liquor consumption, it appears that the following plank adopted in a referendum vote of Socialist party members affords the most direct and practicable means of attaining the desired end:

"Repeal the eighteenth amendment and take over the liquor industry under Government ownership and control, with the right of local option for each State to maintain prohibition in its borders."

This plan has the advantage of enabling the Congress to adopt one of two courses for the purpose of raising needed revenue. Liquor can either be manufactured on a cost-plus basis, and the profits used instead of taxes to help defray the costs of general Government; or Congress could place a retail tax on the consumption of alcoholic beverages and manufacture at cost of manufacture and delivery to the retail Government warehouse or store; or a combination of both plans might be used to raise still more revenue.

There seems to be a great prejudice toward restoration of the saloon, although no adequate substitute has been devised for social relaxation upon the part of millions of men and women who under the present economic conditions find it impossible to marry and raise families. Some advocate that the Government sell liquor to retail grocery stores, thus treating its sale as that of any other commodity. This was the method used in the early pioneering days of this Nation, and the early settlers seemed to get along all right.

The Socialist plan really seems the most adaptable and feasible, all things considered.

A. W. HART.

Mr. Calpakian Finds That Everybody Means Well, but Gets Wrong Results.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In my opinion the nation's thought forces are being misdirected. While the motives remain good, means and methods are getting results which are the reverse of common expectation.

I find that statesmen are unwittingly bringing about political chaos. Economists are creating and perpetuating poverty. Religionists are causing men and women to turn away from the idea of God. Alienists or mind specialists, in their ignorance of their own profession, are resorting to mosquitoes as a remedy for their patients. The United States Government, in the name of the nation, not only approves all these mistakenly directed efforts, but finances them liberally. Here is the cause of real waste, not only of money spent uselessly, but mind-forces directed toward self-destruction, and all in the name of science, progress or improvement.

P. CALPAKIAN.

Accuses Democratic Politicians of Trying to Block Reconstruction Program.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I do not approve of all of Mr. Hoover's policies, but I certainly am not going to support the Democratic politicians, many of whom greeted the advent of this depression with unholy glee when they thought it would result in their winning control of the Government. The fact is many of them were so fearful that the President's constructive program which was enacted by Congress would be successful in restoring prosperity that they tried to throw obstacles in his way in order to intensify and prolong this depression until after election day, thinking that it would help them to win the Presidency.

Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

WISCONSIN is the first State in the Union to allow all political parties to broadcast their campaign views on Government free of charge.

Gov. La Follette, in a report on radio programs dealing with governmental matters recently transmitted to the office of education, calls attention to the broadcasting of programs sponsored by political groups during political campaigns as one of three types to be broacast by the State stations. The other two consist of programs giving information on noncontroversial subjects and programs giving both sides of controversial subjects.

The experiment introduces an effort to treat impartially party questions by radio and is of great significance. The cost element also is met by the free use of the State-owned stations. The State will undertake no censorship, but limits the programs to State and national issues.

Representatives of WHA, operated by the University of Wisconsin, at Madison, and WLBL, the State-owned station, directly in the hands of the department of agriculture and markets, Stevens Point, have entered into an agreement with leaders of the various political parties for an impartial use of the radio stations to inform the citizens of Wisconsin the candid views of the several parties on State and national issues. It is understood that at present many of the voters get only one point of view. They read as a rule only one political paper and attend only the meetings of the party with which they are affiliated.

It is believed that if each party is allowed an equal opportunity to present its own case over the State stations, the voter can get a much more adequate understanding of the governmental problems and can vote more intelligently.

FOUR new voices and faces have joined the cast of "Myrt and Marge" for the resumption of its five-a-week schedule over WMAL. Cornelia Osgood is playing the part of Dixie Lane, who formerly entered in to the script only through reference. Tom Post is supplying the German dialect for the characterization of Max Schwartz, the musical director. Carl Hackett is playing the part of Dave Andrews, dancing director, while Frank Seay takes the part of Smithson, production director.

The no-doubling ban is still enforced in "Myrt and Marge." There is an actor for each voice, giving the production the largest dramatic cast on the air.

It will be a surprise to many listeners to learn that "Myrt and Marge" are mother and daughter in private life. Myrtle Vail is the mother of Donna Damerel, who plays Marge in this skit of backstage life. Miss Vail writes the continuity. The father is George Damerel, formerly well known in vaudeville.

THE definite date for the return to the local air of the Wilkins Coffee Hour has been set as Monday, September 26, the day after the return of the networks to Eastern standard time schedules. Marguerite Cromwell, soprano, accompanied by Rudolf Schramm's Orchestra, will be heard each Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 6:45 o'clock, just prior to the "Amos 'n' Andy" broadcast.

In addition Wilkins will inaugurate a new morning program, featuring George Reid, the One Man Minstrel Show, each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday morning. This presentation will be heard at 9:15 o'clock, immediately following the Miss Sanico broadcast.

Jessica Dragonette will return to the microphone after a summer of rest during the program over WRC at 7 o'clock tonight. She has selected "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," "The Indian Love Call" and a selection from "The Firefly" for her solos.

The second installment of the mystery thriller, "The Phantom of Crestwood," will be heard tonight (WRC, 9:30 o'clock).

SO many people have asked how the very realistic sound effect of ginger ale being poured into a glass is produced on the Cliquot Club program that it seems somewhat of a let-down to tell them that it is produced by pouring ginger ale into a glass.

There is no further "trick" to it—except the bit of fast studio by-play that usually results in the first Eskimo violinist drinking up the sound effect as soon as it has served its purpose.

Borrah Minnevitch and his Harmonica Rascals, who have glorified the lowly mouth-organ as a symphonic instrument, will be guest performers on Nat Shilkret's Week-End Hour (WMAL, 8 o'clock) tonight.

"MASQUERADE," one of the outstanding tunes of current vintage, will be offered by Singin' Sam during his program over WMAL at 7:15 o'clock tonight. He will also include the melodies of other times, "Mary Lou," "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree" and "Nightfall."

Libraries to Close for Holidays.

Dr. George F. Bowerman, librarian at the Public Library, Eighth and K streets northwest, announced yesterday that the central building and all branches will be closed Sunday and Labor Day.

JAPANESE CAUTIOUS IN ECLIPSE MYSTERY

Phenomenon Lasted Shorter Time Than Scientists Forecast.

Boston, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—The eclipse excitement closed today in a mystery —"what is the new thing in the sun that the Japanese saw?"'

First reports had it a new kind of gas. This was denied repeatedly today by Prof. N. Hirayama, the leader of the Kioto Imperial University party, where the excitement started right in the midst of totality yesterday.

Hirayama had some instruments of a new kind. One was an attachment for separating the light of the corona into two parts, getting rid of the rays which are merely reflected off from dust particles in space, and photographing only the light originating in this mysterious glowing ring.

He had also some new film, more sensitive than usual. Both improvements he said were developed in Japan.

Exclaims to Visitor.

While observing the eclipse yesterday he called to an American visitor to look into a spectroscope, exclaiming, according to the visitor:

"Look—see that dark blue there—that's something new."

Later, based on this remark, and subsequent questioning, the report went out that Hirayama was confident he had discovered a new gas and that he called it 41.

Today the Japanese leader said his new process plates had been underexposed, due to the eclipse lasting a full second less than astronomers forecast. He said he was not confident how well the photographic plates would turn out.

Error in Timing.

The untimely speed of the moon in finishing its total eclipse was widely observed. Capt. C. H. J. Keppler, head of the U. S. Naval Observatory Expedition, reported today that a stop-watch, in which there might be a slight error, timed the duration of eclipse at 97 4-5 seconds when it was expected to last to 98 or 98½.

Capt. Keppler commented on "unusually brilliant prominences," the blazing flames of gas that could be seen flaring nearly 500,000 miles beyond the edge of the moon. They stood out above the upper left side of the sun. Actually, he said, the sun was never totally obscured.

Clouds interferred only little with the Naval men, Capt. Keppler estimating their observations 80 to 85 per cent successful.

Dr. Heber D. Curtis, of the University of Michigan Expedition in the cloudy New Hampshire region, was jubilant today at discovering in developed plates much better results than expected.

Thatcher Will Accept Nomination if Offered

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Republican State headquarters today released a statement by Representative Maurice Thatcher saying he would accept the Republican senatorial nomination if offered at the State convention here September 7.

The statement said Thatcher did not believe it appropriate for him to be a Senate candidate since he had been chosen as one of the nine Republican nominees for member of Congress at large, but would accept if nominated and "strive to justify this further evidence of party confidence."

Canada Likely to Hike Tariff on U. S. Coal

Ottawa, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—The Ottawa Citizen predicted today that the tariff on American anthracite, established at 40 cents a ton at the last session of Parliament, would be increased to 60 cents at the coming session.

The purpose of the increase, the newspaper said, would be to give British anthracite an additional 20 cent preference under the agreement between Canada and the United Kingdom. British anthracite now comes in free.

Shriners to Meet in Bristol.

Bristol, Va., Sept. 1 (A. P.).—Nearly 100 members of the Kazim Shrine Temple, of Roanoke, including former Gov. E. Lee Trinkle and Representative Clifton A. Woodrum, both past potentates, will visit Bristol to participate in the Bristol Shrine Club program Labor Day, September 5.

Mrs. Brennan Reelected By Catholic Alumnae

Mrs. Alfred C. Whitton of Washington, D. C. was named first vice president; Miss Agnes L. Cogan, Brooklyn, corresponding secretary, and Miss Margaret Shields, Dallas, Tex., recording secretary. Canada was admitted to the Federation at yesterday's session.

SOVIET FOOD SHOPS SHUT ON PRICE JUMP

Tenants in Housing Shortage Relieved, but Groceries Go Up 300 Per Cent.

Moscow, Sept. 1 (U.P.).—The Moscow populace won a measure of government relief today in the capital's tragic housing shortage, but immediately suffered a setback through a startling increase in foodstuff prices in the government closed shops, where costs normally are more reasonable.

In some instances the increase in prices of essential foodstuffs was more than 300 per cent. Eggs, formerly 10 kopecs each, soared to 35 kopecks. Cheese, previously 5.3 rubles (nominally about $2.55), went to 14 rubles per kilogram (2.2 pounds). Cream prices rose from 3 rubles per kilogram to 4.50 rubles.

The price of bread and several other staples did not change, although recently some food prices have gone up steadily. For instance, meat was 1.45 rubles per kilogram several months ago, but is now 2.2 rubles.

The housing problem was dealt with by a government decree ordering an immediate cessation of "bureaucratic and heartless treatment" of tenants.

Under the new order the people will be disturbed in their right to their living quarters only under extreme provocation. Tens of thousands of court cases about housing will be canceled in favor of the present occupants.

In assigning living space, the authorities were ordered never to put unacquainted persons of different sexes in the same room without consent of both parties. Such action had been a common procedure in the past.

Kiwanians Honor 2 Capital Florists

Shaffer and Blackistone Receive Certificates at Luncheon.

George C. Shaffer and Z. D. Blackistone, Washington florists, were honored yesterday by their fellow members of the Washington Kiwanis Club. Both men were presented certificates in appreciation of their gifts of flowers. The ceremonies were incident to the luncheon of the club at the Raleigh Hotel.

The presentations were made by Roe Fulkerson, first president of the club. A further feature of the luncheon was a program of singing. President Edwin F. Hill presided.

Members of the club were invited to attend the tenth anniversary celebration of the Winchester, Va., club, which will be observed by a luncheon at 12:45 p. m. next Wednesday. A delegation will attend.

B. & O. Train Kills 2 Girls at Leslie, Md.

Leslie, Md., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Two girls, who took advantage of a temporary lull in work at the cannery where they were employed to go for a stroll, were struck and killed by a Baltimore & Ohio Railroad train this afternoon.

The girls were Mary Marshall, 16, and Anna Michael, 17, both of Baltimore. They apparently did not hear the New York-Washington Express until too late.

Minnesota Educator Dies.

Lake Wales, Fla., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Dr. Thomas G. Lee, 70, of Babson Park, for many years head of the department of biology at the University of Minnesota, died in a Vero Beach Hospital today of injuries received in an automobile accident Sunday.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—In almost all of the exclusive Parisian houses red is evident in at least one of the new and fascinating shades. Fuschia, pomegranate, a rare ruby, almost any red just so it is a rich and lovely shade.

Velvets, of course, are particularly suited to these reds. But other fabrics have been dipped in the red dye pot, and many an accessory has emerged most fascinating from its immersion. Serpent skin, for instance, has come out a beautiful ruby, and is seen in several widths of belts. And these daytime belts are really so lovely that real gold or silver buckles are deemed worthy of them.

Then what about red gloves, yes, as fascinating as they sound, madame! And the crocodile, not to be outdone by the serpent, has decided to achieve a brilliant red, and has done so, in bags. Then jewelry, in the lovely rubies, both real and imaginary, or garnets, a deeper red and a less expensive stone. And, almost inevitably, red crystal and composition made into huge and fascinating bracelets or those little finger rings that provide such a bright spot of color to the ensemble—and match milady's pretty lips!

* * * *

And now that is an idea! I tell you, when I read in Mamzelle's letter that some clever couturiere had designed a "ship skirt" that is promised to stay in shipshape, if I may be allowed to say so, I just had to read further. It seems that this skirt, oh, so intricately cut and fashioned, is really a pyjama affair—but so subtly done that you can not detect the skirt division at all; and that it is made of supple black taffeta, and that one wears a number of adorable bodices with it, closely held to the figure and crossed and tied around the waist, ending in a bow either back or front. The bodices offered with this skirt are, one in off white satin, one silk muslin in pale gray, spangled with black, another of wine red striped in black in different width stripes, and one in black taffeta matching the skirt. The idea is to minimize the dressing-aboard-ship problem, and to cut down on tailor's bills—let alone to offer Miladi a new gown every night for her soiree—that she can wear with one set of lovely accessories. 'Tis an idea worthy of Dah-ray herself, she—only she didn't think of it first. Coises!

* * * *

Have you seen the announcement of the Dah-ray designs that you can have for only a stamped, self-addressed envelope? Why, if you've ever had occasion to look and look for an unusual design of any kind, you can appreciate what a nice leaflet this really is when I tell you that there are a whole lot of designs in it.

Not dress designs, though, dahrling, but designs for embroidery or lamp shades or making anything with clever fingers. I do hope you will send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dah-ray Department of The Washington Post for these designs, because there will be some clever Christmas gifts for you to make later in the season, and you will wish you had these designs like anything!

* * * *

Bernard et Cie. go on and on making chic and delightful coats for Miladi, despite wars and depressions and all the exigencies of civilization. I sketched two of their newest coats for you today—one of red wool, unusually trimmed in Hudson, and the other something a bit different in a chamois skin coat, like those jackets we have all been wearing, you know, but a long coat instead of a short one. Aren't they nice?

* * * *

Things that button onto buttons that are already on the dress are all the rage now. Oh, they have to be planned when the dress is made, of course. A red peau d'ange gilet and collar, for instance, are buttoned to a red mixture tweed sports dress, with brown wooden buttons that seem to be just trimming the dress when the gilet is not worn with it. Nice?

Au revoir.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

How Loretta Young Keeps Lovely.

THE heading should read, "How Loretta Keeps Young." For, though the young lady has hardly seen enough summers or winters to start her worrying about wrinkles, I dare say she will look just as young ten years from now as she does today. For she has some sane beauty secrets.

Like so many of the interesting screen stars Loretta has her hobbies, and she is intensely interested in them. When I saw her she was simply beaming about her new house, which she planned all alone. Her enthusiasm is contagious. Soon we were both talking about the house, and almost forgot to talk about beauty.

Her family is with her, you know. Her mother, Polly Anne Young and Sally Blaine and a little baby sister, Georgianne. The little girl's room is a miniature period room, with the old-fashioned four-poster bed and canopy, dotted net swiss curtains falling over the bed, a blue satin cover, perfectly charming. Then there's an especially beautiful room for her mother. And Loretta's own room sounds intriguingly French, with a fireplace topped by a mantel of pale yellow marble imported from France. Loretta promised it would have blue candlesticks on either end, a rose rug, white furniture and a big white leather chair by the side of the fireplace. It sounds unusual, don't you think?

Bedtime Beauty Rites.

But this is a beauty lesson and we have already done much wandering. Here are Loretta's bedtime rites, just as she gave them to me:

"When all ready for bed, I sit down at my dressing table and relax all the muscles of my face. Then for five minutes or so I gently stroke my face, and particularly the forehead, upward with a very light, quick motion of the finger tips. Then, after I've set up that tingly, "purring" feeling, I get into bed, turn off the light and fix my gaze on some distant object, perhaps a tree outside the window far away, and shut my eyes while looking at it. This is wonderful for resting the eyes and soothing the nerves."

Keeps Hands Beautiful.

Miss Young's pet beauty secret? I'll let you in on it. She soaks her hands twice a week in oil as hot as she can stand it. It's good for hands and nails, too; keeps them from becoming brittle.

Mixed powder, rather dark in shade, medium lipstick, very little mascara and no rouge comprise her make-up for daytime. But for evening mascara is added, a touch of eyebrow pencil and, blue eye-shadow, and a little darker lipstick. Dark blue and black are her favorite daytime shades; black and white and pastels for evening, but not the "jewel shades;" Miss Young doesn't like them. She calls ballroom dancing her favorite exercise and the beach and archery her preferred outdoor hobbies. Archery, by the way, is becoming more and more popular.

Elsie Pierce, famous beauty lecturer, will answer any questions on beauty you wish to ask her. Address Miss Pierce, in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

(Children's Bureau, Department of Labor.)

Take care that the soft bones of the child's foot are not injured by poorly fitting and badly shaped shoes. The shoes should follow the natural shape of the foot. Before buying shoes for a child, make a tracing of his foot on paper, with the child standing. Select shoes ¼ inch wider than the tracing and at least ½ to ¾ inch longer.

High, laced shoes of the "blucher" type (having the tongue and the toe of the same piece of leather), straight along the inner side, are best. Shoes with the moccasin type of upper are satisfactory if they have soles and are laced. Soles should be firm, flat, moderately flexible, and not slippery. Although heels are not advisable, the sole should be somewhat thicker at the heel and under the arch; a perfectly flat shoe is undesirable. The shank of the shoe should be narrow, the heel close fitting, the upper full and soft over the child's toes, and the toe of the shoe broad enough for his toes to move easily.

Slippers should not be worn instead of shoes.

Elkskin and light-weight calfskin are both excellent leathers. Patent leather is poor, as it prevents evaporation of perspiration. Sneakers are not desirable, as they are slippery and poorly ventilated.

When the child outgrows a pair of shoes, they should be discarded. "Hand-me-down" shoes must not be used unless they really fit.

In these early years shoes are usually outgrown before they are worn out. If the soles become worn and the shoes are still at least ½-inch longer and ¼-inch wider than the child's foot, it will be worth while to have them repaired. Great care must be taken that when shoes are repaired they are not made shorter or narrower or the shape changed.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

YOU can't find anythng easier or quicker to fashion than this charming new apron and deep-sleeve protectors.

The apron covers both the front and the back of the dress. Its becoming V-neckline at the front and pointed hemline, tends to make the figure appear tall and slender.

Practically all you've to do is to cut it out and bind all the edges. The sleeve protectors have elastic inserted at the upper edge. It holds them securely in place.

You can make this attractive set for a nominal sum of fast-colored fabrics than will tub and tub.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

TO HEAL LEG ULCER.

IT is not difficult to clear up chronic ulcers of the lower legs due to varicose veins, or any other causes except cancer, tuberculosis and syphilis, provided just one principle is acted on—that is, the effect of gravity. It is not in the scheme of things for any ulcer of the skin to become chronic. When one does, the reason is that some cause is persisting. A chronic cause is necessary for a chronic ulcer. In the lower leg the chronic cause is blood and lymph stasis.

Man is the only animal that stands and walks erect. In the case of ordinary quadrupeds there is a near right-angled bend where the legs join the body. Even the gorillas and other apes habitually stand and walk bent over, with some weight carried by the arms. They arise to the perpendicular and lift their hands from the ground, but not for a great while.

The blood and lymph that is carried to the feet and lower legs does not have any easy time getting back. It is the bottom of a column that is nearly 6 feet high. The pump that is there to keep it moving is a long way removed. The tubes that hold it are rather easily disarranged. There are various places at which the return flow is rather easily dammed. Some of our dress and other customs tend to add to the load.

If there are chronic leg ulcers, and such chronic causes as cancer, tuberculosis and syphilis have been ruled out, we can assume that the circulation in the feet and legs is poor and in that fact lies the cause of the ulcer. Whatever may be the other causes of the poor circulation, gravity is at least a contributing factor.

The easiest way to cure a leg ulcer is to have the patient go to bed and stay there all the time until the ulcer is healed. Sitting in a chair, with the leg horizontal, would be equally as effective if the patient is not built like Rip Van Winkle and fails to count the times when the foot is lowered.

However, since healing leg ulcers is not easily nor quickly done—in fact, weeks of treatment would be required—the bed or chair treatment is seldom feasible. A very good substitute is supporting the skin and tissues, from the knee down, by means of bandages. The bandages must be pulled tight and held, so as to compress with some force. The best material to use is an elastic adhesive. Pads are placed so as to protect certain parts, and then the adhesive is applied firmly, as has been said. The physician exercises judgment in deciding just how tight the bandage should be. It covers the ulcer. The bandages must be reapplied as often as they become soiled.

When the ulcer has been healed and the bandages are to be left off, elastic stockings should be put on in their stead.

PROBABLY GALLSTONES.

Mrs. E. H. writes: I am 54 years old. About a year ago I began to be constipated, which I think has brought on indigestion. I have no pain in my stomach, but at night I awake with a sour stomach and know my food has fermented. In the last couple of weeks I have a pain in the right side of my liver, between my shoulders and under my right shoulder blade.

REPLY.

My guess is that you have gallstones or an infected gall bladder. You will require more than a few days' dieting. You may need an operation. You will certainly need to change some of your habits. You should eat simple foods with no seasoning, not much grease, nor much meat and eggs, no condiments, and no alcoholic beverages. Your supper especially should be light and simple.

MINERS' CONSUMPTION.

Mrs. J. B. H. writes:

1. What is the cause of eczema? Is it deeper than a skin disease? What length of time does it run and is it liable to return? Should one diet and, if so, what kind of diet? What is the treatment of the disease?

2. What is the cause of miners' tuberculosis? How does it differ from pulmonary tuberculosis? Is it ever curable? What would help? What length of time does a patient generally live?

REPLY.

1. Eczema is a word applied to a group of skin diseases. If the group has any common characteristics they are chronicity and tendency to be moist or to ooze. The answers to your subquestions depend on which disease you have in mind. The answers proper for one would be exactly wrong for others.

2. Most cases called miners' tuberculosis are really cases of ordinary consumption. However, there are cases of chronic lung inflammation found in miners that are caused by dust. They go by the names anthracosis, silicosis, siderosis—according to the dust which causes the trouble. These diseases cause cough and asthma, shortness of breath, lack of endurance, and inefficiency. They are not curable in the proper sense, nor do they cause death. However, tuberculosis and other serious infections are apt to complicate.

THE GAMBIT IN BRIDGE.

DEVOTEES of Chess use the word "gambit" to designate a play which involves the deliberate giving up of a pawn for position or to gain time for an attack. Some of the most brilliant games of Chess on record have developed from various forms of the gambit.

In Bridge, the occasion quite frequently arises for the use of similar tactics, and the term "gambit" might appropriately be applied to the play involving the sacrifice of a ranking card in order to achieve the desired result. As Mr. John W. Jacobson, of Toronto, Ontario, points out, the recognition of such a situation before it is too late is the mark of a fine player, and the hand below, which was played recently in Toronto, exemplifies a typical Bridge gambit and shows as well a fine application of the most brilliant of all plays, the Vienna Coup. It is quite rare for one hand to afford the opportunity for two such fine coups, and Mr. H. P. Fierheller, who held the South hand, is to be complimented upon his handling of a difficult situation.

North—Dealer.

	♠ A K 10 7 4 3 ♡ K 10 9 6 5 ◇ 5 ♣ A
♠ — ♡ 4 3 2 ◇ J 10 9 8 4 ♣ 8 6 5 3		♠ Q J 8 6 ♡ Q J 7 ◇ 7 6 2 ♣ K 4 2
	♠ 9 5 2 ♡ A 8 ◇ A K Q ♣ Q J 10 9 7

Mr. H. P. Fierheller

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
		1♠	Pass
3♣	Pass	3♡	Pass
4NT	Pass	5♠	Pass
6♠	Pass	Pass	Double
6NT	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding, no doubt, was slightly optimistic, in view of South's club holding, yet the slam try can not be severely criticized after North's bid of three hearts. East's double of the bid of six spades was a timely warning of 2 probable spade tricks, and South's switch to notrump was thus clearly indicated.

The opening lead was the diamond Knave, and when the Dummy went down, the outlook for 11 tricks was extremely bright, but the twelfth trick appeared very uncertain. Obviously the club suit had to be established and the King allowed to make, as it was self-evident that East held a guard in spades. Mr. Fierheller went to work on this assumption and took two rounds of diamonds, discarding from the Dummy the club Ace. The club Queen was then led, which East won with the King. Here East could have defeated the contract by playing the heart Queen, but to East the spade Queen appeared just as promising, and that unfortunate choice was made. South now realized that his one chance for making the Slam was for East to hold both the Queen and Knave of hearts, so the Ace and King of spades were played from the Dummy, then Mr. Fierheller reentered his own hand with the Ace of hearts and followed with the four winning clubs, on which all the spades in the Dummy hand were discarded. The situation now was:

	♠ — ♡ K 10 9 ◇ — ♣ —
♠ — ♡ 4 ◇ 10 9 ♣ —		♠ J ♡ Q 7 ◇ — ♣ —
	♠ 9 ♡ 8 ◇ Q ♣ —

South now played the diamond Queen, and East was helpless.

A very well played hand, indeed.

Today's Pointer.

The term "gambit," used in Chess, has also its place in the game of Bridge. A gambit may risk additional loss, but if it is the only method of making the contract, it should be offered.

Tomorrow's Hand.

South—Dealer.

North and South vulnerable.

	♠ — ♡ J 10 6 4 ◇ J 10 9 7 6 ♣ Q J 4 2
♠ J 5 ♡ — ◇ A K Q 8 5 4 3 2 ♣ 9 8 5		♠ Q 7 ♡ 9 8 7 5 3 2 ◇ — ♣ K 10 7 6 3
	♠ A K 10 9 8 6 4 3 2 ♡ A K Q ◇ — ♣ A

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

What Today Means to You

"VIRGO."

IF September 2 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a. m. to 9:50 a. m., from noon to 2 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger hours are from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 5:10 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:20 p. m.

The planetary aspect of September 2 are decidedly favorable, and augur well for all fields of endeavor. Quick accomplishment may not be in evidence, but the sound foundations for progress and success can be laid. Care of health and person is advised, as there are indications, not very pronounced, of both sickness and accident.

A child born on this September 2 will cause trouble and worry just after adolescence. On reaching maturity, however, it promises to settle down, whether it be a boy or girl, to steady effort and application and will "make good." A trifle thoughtless, it will be free from malice, with a disposition bubbling over with affection and love.

Born on September 2, you are a confirmed pessimist, and are never looking for that something just around the corner, on which the optimist always reckons. In your case, pessimism makes you work harder and more thoroughly than if you were confident of success, and in spite of your lugubriousness you are destined to accomplish much in any career that you may elect to follow. You are, perforce, condemned to live a solitary life, as the enthusiasts of the world do not court the companionship of one who only visualizes failure and belittles effort.

Your disposition, in spite of its mournfulness, is a kind one, and you never hesitate to extend a helping hand to those who stand in need of it. Rather nervous in the society of the opposite sex, and nearly always tongue-tied and a great portion of your life with-foot-locked, you may have to spend a great portion of your life without the intimate companionship which eases troubles and lightens burdens. You are a demon for work, and possess great powers of concentration. Meticulous and careful in your methods, you are a stickler for neatness and order; whether it be in the home, the office or the factory. Indifferent to sports of a competitive character, you find your chief recreation in reading and walking.

Successful people born on September 2:

Sumner Increase Kimball, U. S. Life Saving Service.

Anne Whitney, sculptor.

Hiram W. Johnson, senator.

Henry George, political economist.

Newell D. Hillis, clergyman.

HIGHWAY EQUIPMENT OFFER IS ACCEPTED

State to Give Fairfax County $42,333; Few Items Are Excepted.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

The order of the Virginia State Highway Commission to take over the road equipment owned by Fairfax County was accepted yesterday with minor exceptions by the county board of supervisors at a special meeting at Fairfax.

The offer was contained in a letter of Chairman H. G. Shirley, of the State Highway Department, to W. F. P. Reid, chairman of the Fairfax County supervisors. This action was taken in accordance with the new law establishing the State secondary highway system which the voters of the county accepted at a special election on August 9.

The letter of Chairman Shirley was in reply to the conference held in Richmond last week when the county supervisors offered to allow the State Highway Department the use of all county-owned road equipment free of charge if they would keep the same in repair and allocate $25,000 of the newly created State equalization fund to be spent on the county, roads in the immediate future.

Secondary Fund.

Chairman Shirley offered to give Fairfax County the $25,000 equalization allotment plus $17,333 in addition thereto for the county road equipment, exclusive of the office furniture, the county stone quarry and equipment and the county equipment depot at Fairfax. The stated asked that they be allowed to use the county equipment depot. The total allocation of $42,333 would be appropriated to Fairfax County out of the State secondary highway equalization fund and the State would take over the county-owned road equipment without strings attached to its use or disposal.

The supervisors by a unanimous record vote agreed to transfer title to all equipment at the inventory valuation price of $17,333 and the allocation of $25,000. The use of the equipment depot was not granted, as the supervisors stated that they believed that inasmuch as the county did not retain title to the road machinery it was not fair to the taxpayers, as the county is badly in need of such a place to store its own equipment, especially since the county school buses, the public school repair material and equipment and the need of a central school repair plant.

To Establish Headquarters.

It was announced that the State highway department will hold a public hearing September 29 at Orange Court House, Va., to consider the classification of the secondary roads in the twelve counties in Culpeper district, of which Fairfax is one. Maps showing the tentative classification of the former county roads have been placed on file with the local supervisors. Any changes from this will be considered at the Orange meeting.

The supervisors yesterday voted to allow the State highway department to establish its local resident State engineers' office in the county courthouse occupying part of the headquarters of the former county engineer.

New Arlington Voters League Hears Hedrick

The object of the new organization, which already has a membership of more than 35, is to see that all young men and women who have recently become of voting age are registered and properly informed on matters pertaining to the coming election in November. The goal has been set for a membership of 400 prior to election day.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THE week beginning today in the motion picture houses inaugurates as extensive a display of slapstick as has engaged the screen in a month of Sundays, let alone Labor Days.

This observation is made in no spirit of derogation. In the early days, slapstick was the very foundation upon which the popularity of the cinema was based. It represented the alpha and omega of achievement in the direction of making the motion picture an instrument of wide human appeal and universal interest and amusement. It has long been one of the axioms of show business that the discomfitures of others constitute an infallible source of mirth for those not involved in the harassments. Slapstick merely takes tumultuous advantage of this circumstance, thus becoming one of the most wholesome of the rowdy relaxations.

When the Four Marx Brothers cut loose their sublimated lunacy in "Horse Feathers" at the Metropolitan today, new records in robustious humor should be set up in the F street house, which once symbolized in its weekly offerings the highest attainment of which the studios and lots were capable. It would not surprise me if the high mark of hilarity set by Harold Lloyd, 'way back yonder in the old silent days, in "Safety Last," should go by the board!

At the other boundary of the downtown, first-run area, Bert Wheeler and Bob Woolsey will be causing further commotion as the two trusties in "Hold 'em Jail," if anything a less gossamer and self-contained piece of absurdity than "Horse Feathers." And that's carrying the brass-knuckle brand of humor almost too far!

What a subtle tribute such a week is to the sagacity of that white-haired Hibernian, Mack Sennett! And what a chance to laugh off that depression!

Although a too rigid schedule of official duties precluded participation in the recent junket to New York to indulge in a big parade of previews as guest of Paramount, the Messrs. Carter Barron and Eddy Gilmore, of the Loew executive organization, yesterday made it possible for me to catch up, in part, on my home work by screening Maurice Chevalier's "Love Me Tonight" in a refrigerated projection-room borrowed from Mr. Payette and the genial gentlemen locally representing the Freres Warner.

It is with utmost frankness that I confess to being still slightly ga-ga over the manifold superiorities of this smartly executed bit of musical fol-de-rol. Until a more opportune time for extended consideration, please take my word for it that this Rouben Mamoulian production is in a class by itself, multiplying the combined best of Rene Claire, Victor Saville and Ernst Lubitsch by several!

That Chicago critic didn't miss the head of the nail by much when he suggested that "perfect" was the word.

It might be a good thing for the industrial revival to give all of these here now musical directors a little time off now and then. For instance, Phil Lampkin, relieved of his baton waving and band stand calesthenics for a week by the completeness of the itinerant organization presenting the condensed version of "Rio Rita" at Loew's Fox, has stepped out and bought himself a new sedan, which he and Mrs. Lampkin will break in on a week-end jaunt to New York, returning to Washington not later than next Wednesday. I understand they're driving up to go to a picture show!

So the boys and girls backstage at the Fox last week learned about temperament — and temper — from that distinguished emotional tigress, Mlle. Appolonia Chalupez. And, boy, could she dish it out and could they take it!

Weather forecasts to the contrary notwithstanding, yesterday's 106, as far as I could see, was just about as uncomfortable as Wednesday's. Or maybe it was the cucumbers and onions!

NEW CINEMA OFFERINGS

RKO-KEITH'S

"HOLD 'EM JAIL." Radio picturization of a story by Tim Whelan and Lew Lipton, adapted to the screen by S. J. Perelman, Walter De Leon and Mark Sandrich, starring Bert Wheeler and Bob Woolsey, with Edna May Oliver, Edgar Kennedy and Betty Grable. Directed by Norman Taurog. Previewed last Saturday midnight.

By NELSON B. BELL.

The nuttiest, ooziest, most superlatively insane (I have not as yet seen "Horse Feathers!") symposium of gags, gibberish and glorified burlesque that has ever found its way upon the screen might be accepted as a modest and almost wholly inadequate description of this much-vaunted and long-awaited vehicle for two of the cinema's prize zanies.

For those who leave their easier risibilities lying around near the surface, "Hold 'Em Jail" will spell a laugh orgy of the first dimension. There isn't a grain of sense in a carload of such footages! There is, however, a vast amount of two-edged satire constantly slashing away at those institutions of higher learning in which football is the most important item of the curriculum. Two high-pressure novelty salesmen, posing as "all Americans" make the mistake of pressing their wares upon a speakeasy proprietor who acts as football scout for Bidemore Penitentiary, fighting out a bitter rivalry with another first-class prison in the Big Pen Conference for gridiron supremacy. The two boys boast themselves into long terms, usurp most of the warden's prerogatives and make Bidemore the most rah-rah of all the big houses!

Upon this fantastic premise is strung a succession of the weirdest episodes that ever mitigated a jailbird's boredom. You may call it a football game they play inside the walls of the big hou e if you want to, but it much more closely resembles a field day over on the Anacostia hills, if you know what I mean.

There would be no purpose, of course, in pretending that "Hold 'em Jail" is that illusory masterpiece consisting exclusively of inspired comedy devices. Many, no doubt, will deem it continuously hilarious. Many others, with equal surety, will find parts of it insufferably dull and unfunny. Personally, I could do with a great deal less of Mr. Wheeler's wooing of the warden's niece, not so much of Edna May Oliver and considerably more of Roscoe Ates' staccato utterances. And not all of the football game rolled me in the aisle, either!

The piece is played with a barefisted vigor that is meant to be overpowering, but at times becomes merely overly pointed on the wrong side of propriety. In addition to Wheeler and Woolsey, as the trusties; Edgar Kennedy, as the warden, and Edna May Oliver and Betty Grable, as his meddlesome sister and pretty niece, important bits are contributed by Warren Hymer, Paul Hurst and Robert Armstrong, who broadcasts the big game.

"Get That Lion," a special featurette of unusual content; Aesop Fable, "Wild Goose Chase," always amusing; "Ten Minutes With Mozart," just that; the Pathe News and the NBC-RKO radio auditions augment a feature that will make you think you're crazy, even if you're not!

Man Held in Bail On Rum Still Charge

Van Buren Hewitt, who was captured last week after a raid on one of the smallest stills ever found in southern Maryland, was held for action of the Federal grand jury yesterday in bond of $500. He is accused of owning a 10-gallon still found near his home at White Plains, Md.

William G. Davis and Raymond Hardy, of Oraville, Md., were held in bond of $1,000 on charges of manufacture, possession and possession of articles for the manufacture of liquor after being arrested in a raid on a still near their home. A third man given a hearing before U. S. Commissioner J. Frank Parran in Marlboro yesterday was Frank Greenfield, who lives near Malcolm, Md. Commissioner Parran released him when he learned that he had been arrested only because a path led from a still to his home, and that several other men also lived in the house.

317 Arrested in August By Police in Alexandria

The Alexandria Police Department made 317 arrests in August, or three less than in July. The department recovered $3,513.19 in stolen property of $3,778.45 reported. There were 13 stolen automobiles recovered, of which four were out-of-town cars. Two children were fatally injured in automobile accidents during the month.

Arrests for traffic violations led all others, there being 72 for this offense, 45 arrests for drunkenness, 43 for violations of the dry law, 40 cases of disorderly conduct and vagrancy, 21 gambling and the others for minor offffenses.

FAIR AWARDS MADE IN PRINCE GEORGES

The Prince Georges County team won the tobacco judging contest held yesterday at the Marlboro Fair, leading teams from four other counties in southern Maryland. Members of the team are Lee Suit, Charles Willett and Plater Berry. The Charles County team ran second, with Calvert County third, and Anne Arundel fourth.

In the individual judging, Lee Suit also won the first prize of $7, while Berry was second, winning $5. Russell Willett won $4, while Merle Duckett took $3, and Mannie Hutchins collected $2 as his prize. Lester King took the $1 stake.

The Mellwood Women's Club won the first prize of $70 for its booth in the exhibit prepared by the Prince Georges County Federation of Women's Clubs. The Landover Community Club was second, while the Decatur Heights Housekeepers' Club carried off the third place money. The Lanham Study Club was fourth and the Brandywine Women's Club took fifth place.

Sheriff W. C. Hopkins mixed a little business with his peasure yesterday when he went over to the Marlboro race track to attach a race horse, one Hogarty, who ran second in the fourth on Tuesday. Hogarty, according to his half-owner, Louis Caruso, of 7512 Fourteenth street northwest, has won $2,200, but Caruso claims he hasn't gotten his half. Hogarty, who didn't seem interested in the attachment, will spend the night in a stall at the track under care of a deupty.

But once attached, Hogarty's quota of adventures was not over. The horse was due to run in the seventh race, and a horse in a sheriff's custody just can't run a race. So Caruso agreed to have the sheriff attach the horse until the race, then release him while he ran and then reattach him after the heat.

In the declaration filed with the case in county circuit court, Caruso says he bought a half interest in the horse from Joseph M. Catalano for $1,000 in December, 1930. Since that time, the declaration continues, the horse has won $2,245 in races in this country and in Canada. Going even further, the declaration alleges that Catalano, who lives in Baltimore, "is attemptying to conceal or dispose of" the horse. Caruso is represented by Attorneys Robert W. McCullough and Bernard G. Ostmann.

$100 Lost in Clifton Burglary.

Mrs. Joseph Hewett, of the Clifton Terrace Apartments, Fourteenth and Clifton streets northwest, yesterday reported to polic that someone entered her apartment and after ransacking the place escaped with about $100 in cash from a bureau drawer.

Two Couples Petition To Adopt Children

Petitions for adoption were filed yesterday in circuit court, by Perry and Louise Linkins, of Capitol Heights, and William and Mary Chisley, of Glenn Arden. The Linkins want to adopt Claude Tiedge, son of Florence Tiedge, of Perth Amboy, N. J.

The Chisleys want to adopt Rosa Lee Duvall, now 14 months old. The child, daughter of a neighbor, was brought to them in May according to their bill, which was filed through Attorney Walter L. Green.

Phone Alexandria 523.

The reorganized city council of Alexandria, immediately after the six new members were sworn, held a regular session and adopted four resolutions, one of which halted the awarding of a contract for the new roadway on what is known as the River road, or Alexandria-Washington turnpike, at an estimated cost of $45,000, which was authorized by the old council two weeks ago.

Another of the resolutions provides for examination of the city's books by a certified public accountant; another, that the present officers and employes of the city, appointed or elected by the council, shall hold over until their successors are elected or appointed, and the fourth, that meetings will be held at 7:30 p. m. the first and third Tuesdays of each month.

The newly elected members of the council were sworn in by Elliott F. Hoffman, clerk of the Corporation Court, and represent the six wards of the city. They are Marshall L. King, First Ward; Judge Louis C. Barley, Second; Michael T. Dwyer, Third; Nicholas J. Lawler, Fourth; Henry O'Bannon Cooper, Fifth, and Emmett C. Davison, Sixth.

A committee representing various civic and patriotic organizations urged the council to reappoint Col. Clarence Deems, jr., as professor of military science and tactics in Alexandria public schools. Miss Helen Norris Cummings, representing the Cameron Club, made the principal address, but the committee was informed by Mayor Ticer that this was a matter for the handling of the school board and had already been referred to that body. Ivan M. Coleman, of South Carolina, a member of the Reserve Officers Corps, it is understood, has been named for the position, with Sergt. B. M. Patterson in charge of the work at the George Mason High School under supervision of Mr. Coleman.

MAN HELD FOR JURY ON FRAUD CHARGES

M. O. Peed, of Arlington, Accused of Taking Fee to Corrupt Court.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

M. O. Peed, of near Ballston, Arlington County, was held yesterday for the action of the grand jury by Judge B. M. Hedrick on charges of obtaining $100 on the false representation that he could have a driving-while-drunk case quashed. Sheriff Howard B. Fields, testifying, stated that Roger Orrison, recently resigned member of the Arlington County police force, had been involved in the case and had admitted his participation in a signed statement.

The case grew out of the arrest of Peed on the information provided by J. L. Cannon, of Franklin Park, who said that following his arrest he was approached by Peed, the latter claiming he could have the case quashed after it had reached court for $100. Cannon testified that he informed his attorney, Thomas W. Phillips, of this offer, and that Mr. Phillips arranged to have marked money paid to Peed, who was immediately arrested by Sheriff Fields and the money recovered.

Hugh Reid, Peed's counsel, told the court there was no evidence to show that a crime had been committed.

In holding Peed for the action of the grand jury at the October term of the Arlington County Circuit Court, Judge Hedrick stated that it was so obviously false that a man could corrupt the court, the Commonwealth's attorney and the police department for $100, that the claims of the defendant that he could carry out his representation must necessarily be discredited.

Parked Auto Robbed.

William J. Mulvihill, of San Pedro, Calif., yesterday reported to police the loss of clothing valued at $35 from his automobile parked on Pennsylvania avenue between Sixth and Seventh streets northwest.

Five Training Towers To Be Asked in State

The Maryland General Assembly will be asked to appropriate funds for a six-story training tower for volunteer firemen when it meets next January, the executive board of the State Firemen's Association has decided.

The tower will be built at the University of Maryland, where training courses for firemen are held every summer. The project has already been indorsed by the Prince Georges County association, one of the largest in the State.

102 Hunting Licenses Issued.

Elliott F. Hoffman, clerk of the Corporation Court of Alexandria, issued a total of 102 county hunting and fishing licenses during August, at $1 each, and 89 State licenses at $3 each. He also collected for the State $633.16 for tax, deeds, wills and marriage licenses.

Alexandria's Bonded Debt Is $2,112,200

It was shown yesterday that the bonded indebtedness of Alexandria at this time is $2,112,200, with a sinking fund of $224,147.31 to be applied in liquidation, leaving a net indebtedness of $1,888,052.69, according to a report sent out by the city manager to the new members of the council.

There was due the First National Bank of Alexandria, on temporary loans, $200,000, a portion of which has been paid since the report was sent out.

Ward Brown Is Club Speaker.

Ward Brown, vice president of the Alexandria Association, Inc., was the principal speaker before the Alexandria Kiwanis Club yesterday, his topic being "Old Architecture." He was introduced by City Collector Purvis Taylor. Guests of the club included Charles R. Hooff, president, and Col. C. B. Moore, treasurer of the Alexandria Association, which is now engaged in the restoration of colonial and other old houses.

FRIDAY SEPTEMBER 2, 1932 SPORTS

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE Army and Navy have buried their differences and resumed athletic relations after a five-year breach with West Point the decided winner in the negotiations resulting in the new pact.

The new agreement, which provides for relations extending over three years, represents a retreat by Navy from its demands which caused the break while Army, which stood its ground from the start, made no concessions.

Navy it was that precipitated the severance of relations by demanding that West Point comply with the Naval Academy's rule limiting players to three years of varsity play, and when West Point refused to alter its eligibility code, the break ensued.

West Point Stands On Principle.

Despite the fact that Navy's demands for a three-year varsity limit on the players was in accordance with the policy of every prominent academic institution in the Nation, West Point refused to be moved in its stand, and could not be moved without sacrificing a principle.

West Point's primary contention was that any alteration of its eligibility code would violate the academy's hide-bound policy of equality for all cadets, regardless of whether they had seen varsity service at other colleges or not, and that any such rule as proposed by Navy would result in discrimination against athletes as far as the West Point curriculum was concerned.

Thus the Army, standing by a principle, negotiated from a vantage point that virtually defied defeat, and it was patent long ago that if any concession was to be made in a new agreement, Navy must make that concession, which it did in the new pact which provides for competition under the old eligibility rules.

Athletic Exchequers Depleted.

This department is not prepared to say that the finances of the situation influenced the resumption of relations between the two service schools, but the fact remains that sadly depleted athletic exchequers were not helped by the long breach.

For two years, the country missed its greatest gridiron spectacle when Army and Navy could not come to terms in 1928 and 1929. During the last two years they have met with the proceeds approximating $400,000 each season going to charity.

With political pressure indicating that the teams would be forced to meet again for charity and continue to meet for charity as long as there was no other excuse to bring them together, it is not beyond reason to believe that the service schools decided to take the business way out and play for their own treasuries as long as it was probable that they would be forced to meet anyway.

No Navy Victories Since 1921.

Preceding the break between the two academies, Navy had failed to win in the annual games since 1921, and Army's advantage in its more elastic eligibility rule was cited as the reason for Navy's failure to make a better showing.

Whereas Navy limited players who had seen previous college service to only three seasons of varsity play including their records in other colleges, Army permitted its players three years of football service at West Point regardless of their previous service in college football.

But Navy's showing in the last two games which were played for charity, and won by Army by scores of 6-0 and 17-7, illustrated little difference in the caliber of the teams and perhaps went far toward Navy's decision to resume relations which West Point was willing to do at all times.

U. S. Walker Cup Golfers Sweep Doubles to Take 4-0 Lead Over British Stars

Moe-Howell Star as U. S. Youngsters Win Handily.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—The freshmen of American amateur golf came through with flying colors today in their first test under international fire, with the result the United States routed Great Britain's challengers in all four of the 36-hole Scotch foursomes making up the first day's engagement of the Walker Cup battle.

Picking up the thread of victory where the old guard left off in a competition in which the United States never has been defeated, the American youngsters shouldered their assignments like veterans.

From start to finish the result never was in doubt, and there were no competitive thrills outside of one flashing rally put on in vain by the British juveniles, 22-year-old Eric McRuvie and Eric Fiddian, in a sensational match with the American "pony team," Don Moe, of Oregon, and Billy Howell, of Virginia.

Howell and Moe, in the final match of the day, stopped their rivals, 5 and 4, after a lapse in which the American boys dropped five out of six successive holes.

Capt. Francis Ouimet combined with young George T. Dunlap, jr., of New York, to administer a 7 and 6 drubbing to the Anglo-Irish combination of John Stout and John Burke.

The veteran "leadoff" team of George Voigt and Jess Sweetser, of New York, came out in the afternoon to shake off the Hartley Brothers, Rex and Lister, by the score of 7 and 6.

The biggest jolt to the invaders was posted when their crack combination of John Deforest, British champion, and Tony Torrance, captain of the team, fell before the surge of two American newcomers of the competition, Gus Moreland, of Dallas, and Charley Seaver, of Los Angeles, 6 up and 5.

Howell and Moe Look Unbeatable.

Howell and Moe looked unbeatable in the morning when they combined to post a 69, two under par, to become 7 up on McRuvie and Fiddian. Their slump on the outgoing nine in the afternoon, due mainly to the wildness of both off the tees, nearly wiped out their commanding margin. Only two up, with nine to go after wandering all over the links Don and Billy pulled themselves together like seasoned campaigners.

Billy chipped dead to the twenty-eighth green, where Don sank a six-footer for the birdie. After halving the next, Don struck his tee shot two feet from the pin on the short thirtieth. Billy didn't have to sink the putt for a deuce, which was conceded after the Britons were still no where near the hole in three blows. A winning four on the thirty-first put the Americans five up again and they shut the door to the last British threat on the thirty-second green as Howell sank his putt for a birdie four after McRuvie canned an eighteen-footer for the British birdie.

Ouimet, U. S. vs. Torrence, Great Britain.
Sweetser, U. S. vs. Stout, Great Britain.
Moreland, U. S. vs. R. Hartley, Great Britain.
Seaver, U. S. vs. Fiddian, Great Britain.
Voigt, U. S. vs. Crawley, Great Britain.
McCarthy, U. S. vs. L. Hartley, Great Britain.
Westland, U. S. vs. Burke, Great Britain.
Dunlap, U. S. vs. McRuvie, Great Britain.

LINE-UP FOR TOMORROW.

Gus Moreland, United States, vs. Rex Hartley, Great Britain.

20,000 See Risko Outpoint Levinsky

"Kingfish" Is Unable to Cope With Speed of Veteran Heavy.

Cleveland, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Age and experience upset youth tonight as Johnny Risko, of Cleveland, was awarded a twelve-round decision over King Levinsky, of Chicago.

Never at any time during the sluggish proceedings did either gladiator approach a knockdown or score a truly damaging blow and a crowd of nearly 20,000 persons at the Stadium howled in disapproval as the verdict was announced, later changing their boos to cheers.

Risko was too crafty and too fast for the former Chicago fish peddler, who at all times kept boring in, but usually was unable to land cleanly on the bobbing baker boy.

The King put on a fast finish in the twelfth round and several times just missed connecting his lethal right to Johnny's jaw. Risko's years of ring experience were too much a handicap for the up-and-coming Levinsky.

Army's First Grid Drill Draws 155 Candidates

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—With the resumed relations with Navy, its traditional rival, as added inspiration, the Army football squad opened its practice season today. A total of 155 candidates for the varsity and plebe squads reported to Maj. Ralph I. Sasse, head coach, for the first drill today.

JUNIOR GOLF TITLE WON BY NEE

Manor Star Wins by 9 Strokes; Shannon, Slater Next.

MAURICE NEE, 17-year-old star from the Manor Club, is the new District junior golf champion. A scorching sun, beating down on the Army and Navy Country Club course yesterday failed to slow up the pace set by the crack Georgetown Prep athlete in the morning round as he shot his way to a 152 total, 8 above par, and 9 strokes better than Billy Shannon and C. Arthur Slater, both of Columbia, who tied for second honors.

With seventeen young golfers from six clubs competing, Maurice rounded the first half in 79; Harold Graves, jr., of Indian Spring, posting the next best score, an 81. Swinging into full stride in the afternoon, the Manor ace, an entry in the national amateur at Five Farms, whizzed around in 73, 1 over par. An epidemic of bad tee and mashie niblick shots hurt Nee's score for the first eighteen.

Sensational Second Round.

On the concluding journey, Nee played sensationally. Maurice chipped off green from 40 feet into the cup for an eagle two on the sixth and scored an eagle three on the 504-yard thirteenth, after ramming home a 15-footer. One under standard figures, going to the fourteenth, Maurice sliced his drive into the woods, and finally got down in six. He finished the last four holes in par fashion.

Surprise was occasioned when Billy Dettweiler, 14-year-old sensation in the recent sectional qualifying tests here, blew up with rounds of 84-86 for 170. Decidedly off his game, the lanky Manor entry had five three-putt greens on the last six holes.

Shannon, who shot the third nine in 36, and his club companion, Slater, will play off their tie for second and third prize Saturday morning.

Creavy Wins In P. G. A. Thriller

Dutra, Cruickshank, Dudley Among Those to Advance.

Golden Defeated in Upset by Collins at St. Paul.

By PAUL MICKELSON.
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Tom Creavy showed a storming St. Paul gallery today just why he was champion of American professional golf as the battle to dethrone him charged into the quarter final salient.

Caught in the maelstrom of upsets that has thrust aside almost every early favorite in its mad sweep, the stout hearted campaigner from Albany, N. Y., proved his class and stuck in the battle. He came back from almost certain defeat to repulse Johnny Perelli, a star member of the dark horse brigade from San Francisco, one up.

One down at noon and two down and three to go in the 36-hole struggle, he rushed back two birdies and a par to win, circling the Keller course with a rousing medal card of 69 on the final round that kept the crown on his brow for at least another day.

Creavy was joined by another set of favorites, including Olin Dutra, of Santa Monica, Calif.; Bobby Cruickshank, Wee Scot, from New York, and big Ed Dudley, of Wilmington, Del. However, John Golden, veteran from Noroton, Conn., who defeated Walter Hagen in a record-breaking match of 43 holes yesterday, was numbered among the upset victims of the day.

Golden Loses on 36th Hole.

Golden met and lost to the surprising Al Collins, of Kansas City, in a desperate struggle that saw both players slipping fast in the stretch, with Collins winning the fight on the thirty-sixth green as his ball kissed off a partial stymie for a birdie 4.

It was Dudley, who with Creavy represented the only two qualifiers of the 1931 national professional championship show still left in the present struggle, who turned in the biggest margin of victory today. Touring over the Keller layout with a par shattering 70, Dudley boomed 6 up at noon over Henry Picard, of Charleston, S. C., and then cleaned up with another rush of par-breaking golf with a 33 out in the afternoon, winning in a waltz, 10 to 9.

Over his required route, he had fourteen one-putt greens and never was headed.

Dutra, probably the hottest favorite in the championship field tonight, not even including Creavy, won by another lop-sided margin, 5 and 3, but he was given a great fight by Reggie Myles, the tiny Scot from Ashland, Ohio.

The Pacific Coast husky staggered Myles with a great 67 on the morning round to go 7 up and every one forgot about the match until word spread that the Scot was coming back. Myles, putting prettily, while Dutra was missing iron shots and putting weakly, cut his lead to 4 after the first six holes of the afternoon. But the odds were too great and Dutra clinched the match easily after that.

Cruickshank Gains Quarter-finals.

Cruickshank, none too strong after his valiant comeback yesterday to beat Al Watrous, of Detroit, entered the quarter finals by eliminating Vincent Eldred, of Pittsburgh, 3 and 1. That match, too, was closer than it looked.

TODAY'S PAIRINGS.

Upper Bracket.

Olin Dutra, Santa Monica, vs. Herman Barron, Port Chester, N. Y.

Ralph Stonehouse, Indianapolis, vs. Tom Creavy, Albany, N. Y.

WESLEY FERRELL.

TRIBE'S STAR MAY REFUSE TO HURL

Ferrell "Doesn't Care About Pitching for Peckinpaugh."

Special to The Washington Post.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 1—Wesley Ferrell, suspended ace of the Indians' pitching staff, tonight declared that he had received a raw deal from Manager Roger Peckinpaugh, who set him down for ten days after his first inning knockout at the hands of the Boston Red Sox last Tuesday, and that he didn't care about pitching for Peckingpaugh any more."

Ferrell's statement came when he was asked to comment on the assertion of President Alva Bradley that he was not on the market, for sale or trade.

"It was mighty nice of Mr. Bradley to say that. In fact everybody has been nice to me except Peckinpaugh—but that's not getting my $1,200 back. (That is approximately the sum Ferrell will lose by his suspension without pay.)

Asked whether, when his suspension expired, he would not report back to the team and give his best efforts in the race for third place in the American League standings, he replied: "I'll report back all right, but I do not care about pitching for Peckinpaugh any more. He gave me a raw deal and I'm not going to forget it."

2 Homers in Sixth Win for A's, 5-4

Clouts by Simmons, Miller Beat Tigers, Scoring 16th for Walberg.

Philadelphia, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—A brace of home runs in the sixth inning brought about the downfall of young Tommy Bridges today and gave the Athletics a 5 to 4 victory over the Detroit Tigers. The A's won the series, three games to two.

Up to the sixth, Bridges pitched great ball and was tied at 1-1 in a battle with Rube Walberg. But at that point he tossed home run balls to Al Simmons and Bing Miller, with a man on base each time, and the four runs were just enough to decide the game.

Dunn, Rock Hill College, New St. John's Grid Coach

JACK DUNN, who used to be head coach of athletics at Rock Hill College, Ellicott City, Md., was appointed to the same post at St. John's yesterday to supplant Paully Byrne, resigned.

Dunn's Rock Hill teams had enviable records in their time, winning a vast majority of their games, including many against local high and prep schools. Several college teams were encountered by Rock Hill and vanquished.

For the past few years Dunn has been engaged in coaching independent teams in Pittsburgh, and his charges have had good success in the various commercial leagues rampant there. The new coach played at Mount St. Joseph's shortly after the turn of the century.

Prospects, so far as the team is concerned, appear dark. The squad again promises to be light, and minus the youth who held them together last year, Mike Scanlon. The new coach subscribes to no set system of football, but fits the accepted styles of play around his team. He also will coach basket ball, in which St. John's gained city-wide fame last year.

7,000 Watch Garibaldi Triumph

Steele and McMillan Draw; Dusek Wins Over Steinborn.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THREE bone-buckling body slams, which reduced pugnacious George Zaharias to a large heap of squirming protoplasm, gave Gino Garibaldi another victory at Griffith Stadium last night, while 7,000 fans obligingly cheered the victory of the personification of virtue over the quintessence of brutality, or sumpin'.

Garibaldi won in 34 minutes of really ferocious rassling, punctuated by blows and body slams that almost made you feel the boys were in earnest. The crowd egged the two on incessantly, clap-clap-clapping them into a despecrate action throughout. There were no rest periods, no sitting around with inept wrist locks, the trick most of the boys use to catch their breaths. The two sluggers were up on their feet from the word "Go," spraying each other with all the more punishing holds and blows, and wetting the customers for three rows back as their hammy hands struck each other's sweaty bodies, squirting water like a Rube Goldberg fountain.

Zaharias started the modified mayhem by planting a nice kick in Garibaldi's tummy at the start of the show. He strangled Garibaldi about a dozen times, and these pleasant little infractions of the rules all but made Umpire Burns sore, but not enough for him to do anything but wag a finger at the violator and cluck, "tsk, tsk, naughty, naughty." Garibaldi was just about as rough.

Garibaldi Meets Londos.

The victory marked the end of Garibaldi's long climb up to a Londos match here. They meet two weeks from last night. There will be no show next Thursday night.

Ray Steele and Jim McMillan floundered to a 45-minute draw which proved to be one of the least entertaining bouts on the program, although it brought together two of the best boys in the punch-pulling trade.

Pat O'Shocker helped the cause of Son Jennings along by going 30 minutes to a draw with the rising young Indian and Abe Coleman and Tony Felice rassled themselves what was easily the second best bout on the bill, Coleman winning in 13 minutes with what the official hold identifier identified as a combination flying tackle and head lock.

Capt. Fielder Leads Army-Navy Golfers

One stroke behind Capt. Fielder is Maj. Richard Sutherland. Capt. Fielder knitted two 6s for his score. Maj. Sutherland had a 36-37.

VINES STARS FOR WEST'S NETMEN

Wins Two Matches as East's Team Is Beaten, 5 to 4.

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Ellsworth Vines, jr., unleashed his tennis thunder on the courts of the Orange Lawn Tennis Club today and blasted his team of all-California stars to a hairline victory over the Atlantic Seaboard's best, five matches to four, in the annual East-West series.

With the score tied at three victories apiece in mid-afternoon, the 20-year-old national champion sent his cohorts into the lead with a brilliantly played triumph over Sidney Wood, jr., 6—2, 4—6, 8—6. Twice he averted defeat by the narrowest of margins when Wood reached match point in the final set.

Then, after an hour's rest the meteor from the Coast returned to the courts, found the count again deadlocked, and joined his youthful doubles partner, Keith Gledhill, in the decisive victory over Gregory Mangin and Sidney Wood, 6—4, 6—4. With the sectional championship at stake, the national doubles kings played flawless tennis against the Eastern pair to supply a fitting climax to the two-days' warfare.

Vines-Wood Match Features.

Although the final match was all-important, the high light of the second day as far as 3,000 sweltering spectators was concerned was Vines' encounter with Wood. It was a battle from the start, with the blond New Yorker putting up spirited opposition, and it was not until the closing games, when, threatened by defeat, Vines put the last ounce of steam behind his drives, that he put Wood on the defensive.

His service working perfectly, Wood held it through six straight games of the deciding set, leading at 5—4 and then at 6—5, before he faltered. Twice in the tenth game Wood reached match point with Vines serving.

The first time the Californian saved the day with a terrific serve that Wood barely touched. Wood lost his second opportunity to upset the champion by driving weakly over the sideline. Vines then captured the advantage with a shot that hit the net and dropped over. It seemed to break Wood's last bit of resistance, and he put up slight opposition as Vines finished the kill. Both players staggered off the court, exhausted by their fast pace under a withering sun.

G. W. Football Drills At 4:30 A. M. Possible

Four-thirty in the a. m. is early in the morning to be doing anything but resting in the arms of Morpheus, but it may be the hour at which George Washington University's football team will practice at Camp Letts, Md., if the present heat wave continues.

The announcement was made yesterday by Coach Jim Pixlee. The afternoon training period will be between 5 and 7 in the evening, so as to avoid the glare of the sun.

The team will depart Saturday for the training grounds, near Annapolis. In the squad of 48 huskies are 19 junior and senior letter men from last year's triumphant eleven.

Bluege Hits Home Run Off Pennock With Kuhel on Base.

Cronin and Spencer Also Account for Pair of Runs.

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Alvin Crowder and the Washington team needed only two putouts here this sultry afternoon to leave the Yankees scoreless for the first time this season. Before they got them two runs scored.

Washington won the ball game, 6 to 2, and tied the Yankees at ten games all in games won and lost this season, but it would have been a feather in their collective caps if they could have scored a shutout. Including the protested Detroit game, the Yankees have played 131 games without being blanked by their opponents.

Crowder was fast today and puzzling to the Yankees. He held them to six hits, and two of these were Lou Gehrig's. He had them shut out until the ninth and had one man away when he walked Chapman and Lary, and both men scored, the first on a pinch hit by Pitcher Charley Ruffing and the second on an infield out.

Bluege, Cronin, Spencer Hitting Heroes.

Bluege, Cronin and Spencer drove in the Washington runs, two each. Cronin did his bit with a triple and Bluege hit a home run with a man on base. Five runs were made off Herb Pennock and one off Ed Wells.

Pennock, who usually is stingy with his passes, gave two in the second inning, fore and aft of West's single, filling the bases. There was one out. Reynolds, the first pedestrian, scored while Lary struggled with Kerr's possible double-play grounder and got only one man.

This little run was not so lonely after Joe Cronin batted in the third. Kuhel had singled; Bluege had walked. Both had advanced on Manush's sacrifice. Cronin knocked the ball into an unguarded space in center field for three bases, driving in two runs. Lary caught Cronin at the plate with Reynolds' grounder, and West fanned. But the Nats were enjoying the lightness of heart which comes with an early three-run lead.

Fans Ruth With Two On.

Crowder survived the fourth inning unharmed after Gehrig and Lazzeri had hit safely with one out. With two out and two more men on bases, he fanned Ruth in the fifth. He maintained his three-run lead until the seventh. In this inning his associates presented him with two more runs when Bluege put the ball into the left field stands for a home run, scoring Kuhel, who had walked.

Fred Marberry and Danny MacFayden are expected to fling for their respective teams here tomorrow as the Nationals and Yankees battle in their next-to-last meeting of the season. The present count is 10-all and the Washingtonians are particularly anxious to make a clean-up here.

Not only do they crave victories because of their hope to stay ahead of the fourth-place Indians and possibly catch the runner-up Athletics, but triumphs over McCarthy's men tomorrow and Saturday will make them the only team to beat the league-leaders in the season's play. By winning today while the Indians were idling, Manager Walter

Second Place Money to Rod Rack

By WALTER HAIGHT.

JOCKEY EDDIE SMALLWOOD tried to steal a race at Marlboro yesterday with Rod Rack, but Jockey Carlisle, on Homework, defeated his plans without calling the sheriff. This happened in the day's feature race, involving a purse of $500 tagged The Severn.

Homework was 1-2 on the approximate odds board as the field of six paraded to the post and won like a 1-10 shot to pay a $3.10 mutuel. Rod Rack took the place money from Espada, a long shot.

Smallwood had Rod Rack away winging with Homework caught in a pack as the field passed the judges' stand the first time. Sea Myrtle was making it hot for the leader, but Rod Rack drew away to a four-length lead the first trip around. Carlisle did not ask Homework for speed until on the back stretch, where the Broomstick gelding responded to catch the flying Rod Rack and, although Smallwood pounded the latter all the way, Homework was drawing away at the end.

Many Delayed by Traffic Jams.

The usual 5,000 were on hand, many late as the result of a traffic jam caused when the track officials sent two men out on the road to collect the 10-cent Federal tax. The form players came back into their own after Wednesday's drought. Favorites stepped down with regularity to the disgust of the moonshooters.

Kai-Finn, a 4-year-old maiden before the meeting got under way, made it two straight victories by taking the measure of Lady Tournament in the opening dash. The favorite players, shut-out yesterday, had a little to rave about, however. Kai-Finn paying only $2.70.

The second was strictly a two-horse race with Grand Rox, the favorite, defeating Friend after the pair had fought it out from the barrier rise. Kanem, given a rousing ride, was third. The winner is the property of C. C. Smithson, of Washington.

Tang, Miss Betty Bowman's Kai-Sang mare, made a show of the field in the third race. Jockey Parker hustled Tang to the front and she made every post a winning one. Boris and Sambo G. finished in the order named and furnished the only contention for the leader. Jimmy D., made favorite as the betting closed, was back all the way. Tang was a heavily-played second choice.

Marplot Scores Easy Win.

Marplot went slumming at this course and the good horse from New York easily accounted for the Severn. Southland Chief drove into second place ahead of McDonald H. Jockey Godfrey gave the winner a neat ride, but was suspended for the meeting for blocking Patrick Callahan.

McDonald H. and Mordrom got the worst of one of the few poor starts of the meeting. The former was cut off at the first turn and stumbled, but Remillard straightened him out to get in the money.

Bokie B. proved another worthy favorite, taking the sixth in a romp from General Lejune and Austerlitz II. Bokie B. hustled to the front at the start and stayed there.

Sand Bell and Kaffa waged a beautiful battle for the purse in the seventh. After setting the pace, Remillard gave Sand Bell a breather while Kaffa went to the front and then brought the son of Sandy Beall up in the stretch to take the main money. Star Gold was third.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: MARLBORO RACE TRACK.

Mr. Thomas K. Lynch, master of ceremonies, promises that traffic entering the grounds will not be backed up the Marlboro pike as was the case yesterday, due to delays while the Federal tax of 10 cents an admission was collected. Mr. Lynch will have a dozen men on the job today and expects to hustle everybody in for the first race.

We came through with four winners yesterday and had two others barely beaten. Pardon me for mentioning the fact, but I also gave Sobieha at dear old Hawthorne at a $23 mutuel. Jockey Godfrey joined several others on the set-down list here, drawing the meeting for cutting off Patrick Callahan while riding Marplot to victory.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—MISS JAYCEE heads the also eligibles and stands a good chance of getting in action. This one can step lively on occasions and appears to be in the right spot today. I'm also going to the also eligible list for the place and show. They are DANGER ZONE and WASHOUT.

SECOND RACE—I understand Jockey Remillard will have the mount on SPUNKY TODAY, and this one, in his charge, may wake up to take the measure of these. BILLNORA appears second best, but will have to hustle to stand off RUTH TYINGS.

THIRD RACE — GOBI drops 9 pounds today and will not have the speedy breaking Kai-Finn to chase as was the case opening day. Look for this one to cakewalk home. MARTIN'S CRONEY gave Grand Acre a stiff battle at Cumberland and should be second here. SEAWORTHY for the show end.

FOURTH RACE—BABOO was a keen factor in a better field than this the last time. Will not have Hagerstown to battle for the pace and may stick to his guns

Stocks Regain Rising Trend After Absorbing Realizing

Market Closes Higher in Active Trading Sale of 2,428,948 Shares.

New York, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Stocks braced themselves against the rails and a few pool favorites today, closing with gains that generally ranged from fractions to about 3 points.

Shares had to contend against considerable preholiday realizing; nevertheless, the market remained in strong hands and there was enough professional interest in carriers and some specialties to provide a background for higher prices. Quotations eased a little at the opening, mended slowly, met profit taking and then closed strongly, rounding out their best performance of the week. Transactions totaled 2,428,948 shares.

The present market seems disposed to greet joyfully any improvement in basic indices, and carrier equities traded actively, particularly in the last half hour. Pennsylvania was up 2, Santa Fe 3½, Union Pacific 2⅞, and Southern Pacific 2¼. A number of others closed a point or more higher.

Steel shares were generally firm, with a few good advances standing out. Gulf States rose about 3 points at the best.

Miscellaneous stocks up from a fraction to a point included American Telephone, American Tobacco B, Loew's, U. S. Steel common, General Electric, Bethlehem common and American Smelting. Metal issues on the whole were little affected by another advance in domestic copper prices which still have some ground to cover before they will mean profits for a majority of producers.

BONDS RENEW GAINS ON RAILWAY GROUPS

Fraction Added to Prices on $10,294,000 Sale; Market Quiet.

New York, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—The railroads put on a few extra pounds of steam today, with the result that the bond market was able to show a fractional gain for the first time this week.

The recovery was confined principally to the speculative transportation group, however, as both the utilities and industrials were somewhat irregular and hesitant.

Sales totaled only $10,294,000, par value, and the average for 60 corporate issues was up one-tenth of a point. While the average for 20 selected rails gained seven-tenths of a point, that for the same number of industrials was off three-tenths, and for the utilities, two-tenths.

A generally quiet market had been expected, as a number of traders and investors stepped aside for the Labor Day recess. There was no especially constructive transportation news.

The financial district was watching for further indications of an upturn in trade and industry. The terms of the Treasury's September financing, said to be in the neighborhood of $1,000,000,000, were also being awaited with interest.

The principal railroad gainers of the session included some loans of Allegheny Corporation Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Frisco, Nickel Plate, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania and Southern.

Both the United States and foreign government departments were quiet. The Australians rallied sharply and the Germans steadied Finland bonds made new highs for the year on a minimum turnover.

German Tariff Endangers $11,000,000 U. S. Holdings

Berlin, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—New tariff regulations effective September 6 will virtually close the German market to American office equipment companies which have investments in Germany totaling approximately $11,000,000.

The interests affected, it was learned today, have lodged vigorous protests at Washington in the hope of forestalling enforcement of the emergency decree creating the new duties.

U. S. Board Sells Brazilian Coffee

New York, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Coffee advanced sharply this afternoon following publication of word from Chicago that the Grain Stabilization Corporation had sold 8,250,000 pounds received from Brazil in exchange for wheat at prices ranging from 14.27 to 14.53 per pound in storage at New York.

This compared with yesterday's nominal spot quotation of 12¾ to 13c for Santos 4s. No. 7 contracts opened unchanged to 3c higher and closed 19 to 26 higher. Sales 2,000. Santos opened unchanged to 9 lower and closed 25 to 56 higher. Sales 13,000. Closing quotations: No. 7 contracts, September, 7.24; December, 6.28; March, 6.10; May, 6.00; July, 5.90. Santos, September, 12.50; December, 9.29; March, 8.77; May, 8.64; July, 8.55.

Spot coffee nominal and unquoted. Cost and freight offers included resale Bourbon 4s at 11.75 for shipment from Rio.

Loans to Brokers Down to $10,000,000

(Associated Press.)

Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ended August 31 were announced by the Federal Reserve Board yesterday as $345,000,000, a decrease of $10,000,000, compared with the preceding week.

The loans for the week ended September 2, 1931, were $1,366,000,000. The detailed distribution of the loans over two weeks dealt with in the board's report was:

	Aug. 31, 1932.	Aug. 24, 1932.
For own account	$318,000,000	$330,000,000
For account of out of town banks	19,000,000	18,000,000
For account of others	8,000,000	7,000,000

BANK OF FRANCE.

Paris, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes in francs: gold increase 37,000,000; sight balances abroad decreased 8,000,000; bills discounted at home increased 456,000,000; bills bought abroad unchanged; advances decreased 15,000,000; circulation decreased 214,000,000; current accounts increased 530,000,000. Rate of discount, 2½ per cent.

CURB PRICES HIGHER AS TURNOVER DROPS

Gains Up to 10 Points Made as Tone Turns Firm; Oils Erratic.

New York, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—The Curb Market pursued a rather puzzling course today, but wound up strongly. Stocks displayed a firm undertone even in earlier periods of selling. Transactions totaled 400,000 shares against 579,300 yesterday.

Specialties moved to the forefront of public interest. A. O. Smith rallied 5 points. Aluminum Co. was up 3½, and Tubize Chatillon touched its earlier 1932 high and closed 2¼ higher.

Electric Bond & Share was strong at the close. It had carried its reaction at one time to about 10 points below the recent high. The stock pulled up to a closing price of 41¾, however, registering a net gain of 2⅜ points. Cities Service and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore eased slightly.

In sympathy with the strong buying of rails on the stock exchange, Pennroad moved fractionally higher while the inactive Western Maryland first preferred issue shot up to a new 1932 high at 49, up 22 points from its last previous sale.

The oils were somewhat erratic, Gulf reacting more than a point and the Standard issues holding steadily. Mining shares were under moderate pressure. Deere & Co. moved up 1⅛ to 14¼.

Short Tobacco Crops Will Close 6 Markets

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Marcus P. McWhorter, statistician of the State department of agriculture, said today that six Georgia tobacco markets would close at the end of this week and indications are the remainder of the markets will be closed by the end of the following week, due to the short crop.

Those he said would close this week are at Adel, Blackshear, Hahira, Nashville, Pelham and Waycross.

Copper Prices Advance At Home and Abroad

New York, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Copper prices firmed fractionally today, both in domestic and foreign fields.

In the American market the price advanced to 5⅞ cents a pound, with dealers reporting the metal could not be purchased for less than that rate delivered on the Connecticut Valley base. Nearby deliveries were also offered at this rate, an increase of ⅛ of a cent a pound over yesterday's quotations.

BANK OF ENGLAND.

London, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes in pounds: Total reserve decreased 1,195,000; circulation increased 1,406,000; bullion increased 211,000; other securities decreased 1,534,000; public deposits decreased 1,476,000; other deposits increased 580,000; notes reserve decreased 1,228,000; government securities increased 1,870,000. The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability is 36.49 per cent, compared with 37.13 last week. Rate of discount, 2 per cent.

WHEAT VALUES LOSE DESPITE FIRM TONE

Bearish News Also Helped to Depress Prices; Corn and Oats Mixed.

Chicago, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Wheat maintained a stubbornly strong undertone today despite a bearish medley of news which included deliveries much larger than expected, a decidedly weak Liverpool market and crop estimates hard to continue as bullish.

The market was unsettled early by further liquidation of the September delivery and contract deliveries totaling 6,729,000 bushels. Corn also had good support on setbacks. Oats and provisions showed strength contrary to the trend of wheat and corn.

Wheat closed weak, ⅛ to ⅝ cent under yesterday's finish; corn, mixed, ¼ lower to ⅛@½ higher; oats, a shade down to ⅛@¼ up, and provisions 5 to 37 cents advanced.

The probable crop in the three Canadian prairie provinces was placed between 436,000,000 and 478,000,000 bushels. These figures were generally disregarded by the trade.

Liverpool wheat was weaker, being affected by Russian shipments of 704,000 bushels of wheat, although Argentine exports were estimated at only 735,000 bushels for the week.

Corn was easy much of the day, but also had good support on the downswings. Crop estimates averaged 2,902,000,000 bushels, somewhat smaller than last month's unofficial estimates of 2,991,000,000 bushels, but not yet approaching the Government's August figures of 2,820,000,000 bushels. Country offerings were liberal.

Oats were given support by commission houses and showed independent strength. The average of the private estimates was the same as last month, 1,246,000,000 bushels.

Provisions advanced with hogs.

COTTON SENT LOWER ON REALIZING SALES

December Closes at 8.39; Losses 8 to 13 Points; Liverpool Sells.

New York, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—An opening advance in cotton today was followed by reactions under renewed realizing, liquidation and some further Southern selling. After easing off from 8.63 to 8.37, December rallied to 8.56 on covering and trade buying, but weakened again in the last hour and closed at 8.39. The general market closed steady at net declines of 8 to 13 points.

Active months sold about 10 to 13 points net lower under this pressure, making declines of about 25 points from the early high levels, but met more trade buying on the break and steadied during the early afternoon. Increased offerings were encountered on rallies of a few points above yesterday's closing quotations, however, and some active positions made new lows for the day in the late trading when there was more Southern selling and additional liquidation.

Trading was fairly active at times, but business showed a marked decrease as compared with the extreme activity earlier in the week.

Another private crop report was issued making the condition 54.2 and the indicated yield 11,373 000 bales.

Liverpool cables reported general liquidation and hedge selling in that market which, however, did not fully meet yesterday's local decline. Exports today, 32,545, making 496,842 so far this season.

Parole Violated, Man, 72, in Prison

Parent, Free 18 Years, Held in Theft of Articles for Daughter.

Boston, Sept. 1 (A.P.).—Massachusetts State Prison tonight counted among its inmates Frank Howard, 72, who was confronted with the prospect of life imprisonment—after having been free on parole for eighteen years.

A pair of shoes, a bottle of perfume and a handbag, all worth $7, were responsible. Howard, an unemployed painter, allegedly stole the articles for his daughter, a high school student. After seventeen years in prison under a life sentence for armed robbery, Howard was paroled in 1914 on condition he never again would commit an offense against the law.

Howard married soon after his release. His wife and the daughter never knew of his prison record. The news came with his arrest in Boston Monday on the shoplifting charge. He had gone to Boston, his wife said, in search of employment.

He asked for $15,000 through Attorneys Welch, Daily & Welch.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

THE first baseman, generally the busiest man on the diamond, excepting the battery, had a holiday when the Georgetown, Ky., Athletics met the Paris Team last spring, beating them 2 to 1 in a 10-inning game. John Showalter, playing at first for the Athletics, did not handle the ball once during the entire game. No assists, no fielding, no attempts to catch a player off base. Although there were three singles made by Paris players, the ball was never delivered to first in an attempted putout.

TAKOMA PARK MAN IS ASSAULT VICTIM

Neighbor and Woman Friend Held; Dry Raiders Later Visit Their Home.

Taken for a "ride" yesterday afternoon, Samuel R. Thomas, 3 Hickory street, Takoma Park, Md., was beaten with a billiard cue at the hands of a man and a young woman whose home at 8 Hickory street was raided several hours later and 20 gallons of whisky seized, according to police.

The feud, which ended in lodging of Thomas' alleged assailants in the Silver Spring substation, brought into play the combined police departments of the District, Montgomery County and Takoma Park.

William R. Carpenter, of No. 8 Hickory street, and his young woman companion, Catherine Hoffman, were arrested in the Southeast section here by Traffic Policeman R. A. Cunningham at the behest of Thomas, who had trailed them. They were later turned over to Montgomery County Police Sergt. Guy L. Jones and Private Charles T. Barnes, who held a warrant sworn out by Thomas charging the pair with assault and battery.

House Is Raided.

While Carpenter and Miss Hoffman were held here, Takoma Park police moved toward the house at 2 Hickory street, in what they said was a long planned raid.

Montgomery County Police Sergt. Roy Snyder and Private James E. Shoemaker and Takoma Park Chief of Police J. I. Ware, and Privates Earl and A. Thomas conducted the raid.

Police said Carpenter and Miss Hoffman were incensed at Thomas because of alleged information given against them in the past, which resulted in the loss of a carload of liquor.

Yesterday, according to Thomas, he met the pair in front of the Roosevelt Hotel in Washington. They invited him for a ride and the route taken led along the Seventh street pike. Near Glenmont the men began to argue and the car was stopped. The men then began to fight, according to the police version.

Charges Attack.

Thomas, in swearing out a warrant before Justice of the Peace David Mears, of Silver Spring, declared that Miss Hoffman began to belabor him with the heavy butt of the billiard stick. A passing motorist stopped and the fray ended, the arrested pair fleeing.

The motorist took Thomas in and they chased Carpenter and Miss Hoffman through Silver Spring, Sergt. Guy L. Jones joining in the chase. However, the pair escaped. Thomas then swore out the warrant.

Later in the day Thomas espied the pair in Southeast Washington and brought about their arrest.

When the raiding party came to the Silver Spring substation with the result of their sally, they were surprised to find Carpenter in custody. To the charge of assault already facing him was added one of possession of liquor with intent to sell. He was released on $500 bond. Miss Hoffman was released for her later appearance in $25 bond.

Miss Whiting Paid Honor as Grown-Ups Join in Festivities.

Huge Bonfire Is Climax; Scene Borders Onto Sentimental.

With playground officials acting as hostesses, more than 100 children, large and small, and "graduates" of the Northwest Recreational Center, which has provided a pleasure spot for more than eleven years, gathered for a good-by party. The playground has been discontinued, its space being needed for the adjacent new Roosevelt High School grounds.

The honor figure at the party was Miss Jacqueline Whiting, who has been director of the Iowa Playground for the major part of its existence. In fact, Miss Whiting was in charge of the play field when its equipment consisted of only a large box in which to store balls, bats and other game material. She is now in charge at the Eckington Recreational Center.

Under Miss Whiting, the playground children constructed with official sanction and aid of the department a tennis court. Later basketball courts were added, then a baseball diamond. In a few years the playground grew to be a sizeable center, providing play facilities for hundreds of children of the surrounding vicinity.

Several championship girls' basketball teams were among the honors won by representatives of the Iowa Avenue group which also gave a good account of itself in other athletic activities. Many prominent high school athletes got their first training at the playground and some have gone on to high laurels in collegiate activities.

The playground for ten years had an average daily attendance of 2,000 children. It won The Washington Post track trophies for boys and girls three times.

The playground was officially discontinued last Friday, but the party was set for yesterday. Miss Sybil Baker, District playground director, was present, as were Miss Maude Parker, director of girls' activities, and Richard Tennyson, head of boys' work.

Toasted marshmallows, hot dogs and peanuts formed the bill of fare and added a pleasant touch to a scene that at times bordered onto the sentimental. Many of those present were grownups who had seen happy playtimes during past years on the playground.

As the twilight deepened a huge bonfire was started, marking with a ceremonial touch the end of the Iowa playground.

NEARBY MARYLAND'S WATER CRISIS EASES

Strain on County System Is Lessened; Georgia Avenue Connection Turned On.

With the aid of Washington water, the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission is slowly getting the water situation in nearby Maryland into more normal condition. The county system yesterday gained two pounds pressure, despite the enormous load on its mains. Both Washington and nearby Maryland used more water yesterday than has been required in their history.

No restrictions have been placed on the water and unless some unforeseen emergency requires it, none will be placed since the abnormal weather situation is expected soon to subside and cooler weather is due in a few weeks.

Used 3,000,000 Gallons.

Montgomery County used 3,000,000 gallons of District water and 1,000,000 gallons from the Burnt Mills plant, while Prince Georges County drew 2,000,000 from the District and about 500,000 gallons from the Burnt Mills plant, according to Carl Hechmer, engineer in charge of maintenance and operation of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission.

The Georgia avenue connection has been turned on and this has resulted in a lessening of the strain on the county system. The District water turned into the county system previously had gone through the Chevy Chase connection and the tremendous strain had lessened the pressure considerably so that in some high places householders had difficulty in getting water on their second floors. This situation has been improved by turning on the Georgia avenue connection and it is believed the situation is well in control despite the heavy strain caused by the hot weather.

Investigating Complaints.

The sanitary commission still is investigating reports of bad taste of water in the Montgomery Hills section, but has obtained no definite evidence why the situation should have been extant. The commission's employes have been checking the water mains in that section and reported that so far no trouble had been found. Mr. Hechmer said the commission had received no reports of trouble from the residents of the section other than those given unofficially by newspapers.

The engineer said samples of the water in the mains of the county are taken regularly for bacteriological and chemical tests and that these had shown nothing wrong with the water. He said the investigation would be pushed, however.

Houseboat Is Robbed.

Thieves broke into a houseboat docked at Water and N streets southwest and made off with a quantity of clothing valued at $15, Frank Laise, who lives on the boat, yesterday reported to police.

Psychological Test For Drivers Seen

Van Duzer Blames Only 2 Per Cent of Crashes on Defective Cars.

A psychological test to determine fitness will eventually be given to applicants for permits to drive automobiles, William A. Van Duzer, director of traffic, told members of the Cosmopolitan Club at their meeting at Carlton Hotel yesterday.

He said only 2 per cent of automobile accidents can be traced to defective machines, the drivers being responsible for the other 98 per cent.

Timid drivers are more liable to accident than the self-confident driver because of slowness to act in an emergency, Mr. Van Duzer pointed out, and said that one out of sixteen cars in Washington is involved in an accident during a year.

CHEST MAY CUT 1932 GOAL BY 10 PER CENT

Reduction Would Be Possible If Congress Adds Funds, Street Declares.

The goal of the Community Chest campaign of this winter may be below that of 1931 by 10 per cent, Elwood Street, director, said yesterday.

This reduction, however, would only be possible if Congress appropriates further funds for unemployment relief as it did last year, he said.

In discussing the outlook for relief work in Washington during the winter, Mr. Street said he expected an increase of nearly 100 per cent in relief demands.

This increase will be caused mostly by unemployment, he said. Some persons who have been unemployed for several months will have exhausted their savings by winter, he said. These will swell the total already dependent on Chest agencies.

Asked if heavy increases in demands would lead the Chest to consider the establishment of such measures as soup kitchens, Mr. Street said: "There is no better way to give relief to needy persons than in their own homes, and that is what we will do. Soup kitchens are a menace to public charity."

Valuable Drawings Are Lost by Artist

A number of valuable drawings, sketches and paintings were lost yesterday somewhere in the downtown section by Moreland W. Schneider, artist, of 1812 K street northwest.

Mr. Schneider said the articles dropped from a brief case as he walked along the street. He missed them near Thirteenth and G streets northwest. Considerable time was spent on one of the paintings, a scene near the Lincoln Memorial, he declared.

POLICE QUIZ BEDELL AND 3 OTHERS TODAY

Officials of Montgomery Will Question 4 in Robbery of Silver Spring Safe.

Montgomery County authorities today will question four men, held here on charges of housebreaking, in connection with the robbery of a safe on July 16 at the office of the Diplomat Coffee Co. in Silver Spring, Md. The men are suspected of complicity in several safe-crackings.

The four were arraigned in Police Court yesterday on the local charges and held for the grand jury. The men, who were sent to the District Jail, are William E. Bedell, 35, 1507 M street northwest, under indictment for robbery of a quantity of liquor from the Salvadorean Legation; James E. Grove, 19, 510 D street southeast; William F. Cush, 38, 335 Adams street northeast, and August Pagliocchino, 26, 1525 M street northwest.

Bedell is held in connection with nine cases; Cush and Pagliocchino, eight apiece, and Grove with seven.

Detectives here said they were told by Grove that the other members of the quartet may throw some light on the Silver Spring robbery during which about $75 was taken.

Man Held for Jury in Safe Theft.

William E. Bedell, who is already under indictment here, was held for the grand jury yesterday when he was arraigned in Police Court on a charge of entering the manufacturing plant of the Breyer Ice Cream Co. and stealing $979 from the safe early in the week. He was ordered held, with two other men, in bonds of $10,000 each.

RECEIVERS NAMED FOR ARCADE FIRM

Riggs Bank Obtains Action After Alleged Failure to Pay Bond Interest.

Because of alleged unpaid interest amounting to $287,300 on a bond issue of $1,105,000, the Riggs National Bank, acting in its capacity as trustee for the bond issue, yesterday obtained in the District Supreme Court the appointment of George M. Whitwell, former secretary of the Washington Gas Light Co., and Joseph P. Morgan, manager of the Washington Arcade Co., as receivers for the latter company.

The court was told that the inability of the Arcade Co. to meet the interest payments entitled the holders of bonds secured by the Arcade property near Fourteenth street and Park road northwest to foreclosure, under the terms of the trust. The receivers will operate the property pending a possible foreclosure sale.

Harry M. Crandall, president of the Arcade Co., recently asked the courts for an injunction to prevent the sale of the bonds which had been deposited as collateral for a loan of $938,000. There will be a hearing on his petition today, although the banks holding the bonds went through with a purported sale last week.

After the purported sale, the banks that purchased the notes for about 60 cents on the dollar, asked the trustee bank, the Riggs National Bank, to foreclose the issue, which was the action taken yesterday. The attorneys representing the bank were Frank J. Hogan, Nelson T. Hartson and William H. Donovan.

Health Officials Deny Paralysis Spread Here

District Health Department officials scoffed yesterday at reports of an epidemic of infantile paralysis in Washington. Only sixteen cases have been reported since the first of the year, according to Dr. E. J. Schwartz, acting health officer, although ten of these have been reported since the first of August. Two deaths have occurred.

Although this is the season of the year when the disease is most prevalent, the number of cases in the District is far from alarming at present, Dr. Schwartz said.

Blood Stains Found As Car Is Recovered

Eighth Precinct police yesterday recovered a stolen automobile on the front seat of which were found numerous bloodstains. The glass window in the door was smashed.

The car, which was reported stolen Wednesday by the owner, Maxwell Stedman, of 3220 Seventeenth street northwest, was found abandoned at the intersection of Thirty-sixth and Ellicott streets northwest.

Private Garage Yields Liquor in Police Raid

A raid made by police on a private garage in the rear of a Belmont road home last night netted 100 gallons of alleged whisky.

Privates J. F. Phelps and R. E. Talbot, of the Third Precinct Station, who made the seizure, stated the whisky was stored in the building in nineteen 5-gallon cans and ten half-gallon jars. The garage, they said, was located in the rear of 1838 Belmont road northwest. No arrests were made.

Police said she was struck by a taxicab which failed to stop. Her injuries were undetermined.

Preliminary Steps Will Be Taken Sunday Night; Parade Plans.

A movement for the organization of firemen into a national body will be undertaken Sunday night at the Lee House, when firemen, who will visit the Capital for the annual Labor Day parade, will be invited to participate in preliminary organization work.

ONE DEAD AND FOUR PROSTRATED IN HEAT

Gaithersburg Man Expires; Mercury Registers 98; Slight Drop Due.

The thermometer continued its dizzy pace, reaching 98 degrees officially, two less than Wednesday's summer high of 100 degrees.

At the Pennsylvania avenue kiosk the two-point drop recorded by the Weather Bureau was not evident. There, the thermometer recorded 106 degrees—the same as Wednesday's high reading.

The heat death victim was Morris Andrews, 55, a farm hand, of Gaithersberg, Md. Prostrations recorded by the police here were Maynard F. Walters, a fireman at No. 24 Engine Company; Willie Spear, 7, colored, of 1928 Temple street northwest; Alec Wilder, 38, colored, of 84 Defrees street northwest, and Ella Prather, 35 colored, of 765 Morton street northwest.

Officials could promise no definite break in the intense heat. Today, they say, the mercury may sink a few degrees. They added there are thunder showers brewing in the region, with a chance that one of these might strike here with its mitigating effect.

Other cities in the East and Middle West suffered under similar temperatures. Seven heat prostrations due to 103 degrees were recorded at Portsmouth, Ohio, and a death at Columbus, Ohio, brought the total for the State to seven for the three days of the wave, according to the Associated Press.

Perhaps, though it would be difficult to prove, yesterday's torridness was ameliorated to a slight degree by the fact that the humidity sank nearly as fast as the temperature rose. At 8 a. m., it was 80 per cent, but had dropped to 48 per cent at 2 p. m. At 8 p. m. it was 61 per cent.

In the three days of the wave, two deaths and 16 prostrations have been reported here and in nearby districts.

Young Girl Injured by Auto.

Mary Hayes, 9 years old, of Cabin John, Md., suffered severe lacerations to her face yesterday afternoon when she was struck and knocked down by an automobile near her home. She was brought to Georgetown Hospital, where her condition was said not to be serious.
